LATE EDITION. PRICE ONE PENNY.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

No. 24,754. Registered at the General Post Office, Sydney, for transmission by post as a newspaper.

SYDNEY, TUESDAY, MAY 8, 1917. 12 PAGES. PRICE, 1d.

SUMMARY.

Field-Marshal Haig reports that the enemy determinedly but unsuccessfully attacked the positions won east of Bullecourt.

The enemy threw in heavy forces, which were repulsed after fierce fighting.

The Germans are desperately resisting the British advance, but it is considered a retirement is fast becoming inevitable.

The "Morning Post" correspondent says the Australian wedge east of Bullecourt is undoubtedly a dangerous salient for the Anzacs.

The Australians, with both flanks unprotected, were subjected to four tremendous attacks.

These were beaten off with the help of artillery, and the Anzacs even improved their position by bombing.

The Paris "Journal's" correspondent pays a tribute to the mettle of the Anzacs and the tenacity of the Canadians.

The "Petit Parisien" says: "The Hindenburg line—battered, shaken, penetrated, and disorganised—is tottering."

A French communique says that the gains made in the last two days have, despite strong counter-attacks, been everywhere maintained.

The operations carried out were in harmony with the British, and have made the French masters of important positions.

So far for Friday's and Saturday's operations 6100 prisoners have been counted. One army corps took 1800.

The "Daily Chronicle" correspondent says the ground captured at Craonne is the most important in the enemy's scheme of defence.

The Germans, therefore, fought with the utmost determination and reckless expenditure of life.

The dreadful struggle continues, but it is, it is said, clear that the tide of victory is turning towards the French.

The German messages report fierce fighting against the French. The British attacks were, they say, repulsed.

The Petrograd correspondent of the "Daily Chronicle" says that the Russian crisis has passed.

The danger of anarchy was very great, but the statesmanlike bearing of the leaders of the crowds saved the situation.

Lord Charles Beresford says that great sacrifices will have to be made before Germany is beaten.

Recruiting throughout Canada is very unsatisfactory, and it is considered likely that conscription will be introduced.

The fact that compulsion has been agreed to in the United States has, Montreal advices state, heartened the conscriptionists in Canada.

Food riots occurred in Stockholm on Saturday, and the police charged the crowds.

The Danish Government is conserving oil supplies for the use of industries.

A decree has been issued that oil can no longer be used for lighting private houses.

Mr. Edison is making important experiments with a view to combating submarines.

The additional polling results show that the substantial advantage gained by the Nationalists has been fully maintained.

On the figures as they stand now the Nationalists will have a majority of 30 in the House of Representatives.

In the Senate, judging by the returns so far to hand, there will be 21 Nationalists and 15 P.L.L. representatives.

The Nationalist three in this State and Victoria are in the region of 50,000 ahead of their P.L.L. opponents.

Mr. Hughes regards Mr. Spence's defeat as a lasting reproach to all organised Labour, and particularly the A.W.U.

The Ministry was, Mr. Hughes added, assured of a comfortable working majority in both Houses.

This would enable them to devote themselves to the problems of the country without worry as to political exigencies.

It may be a fortnight before the votes of the soldiers abroad are known.

The Acting Premier (Mr. Fuller) says the Nationalist victory has been a blow against disloyalty, war apathy, and class domination.

It would, he added, put Australia back in her rightful position in the estimation of the world.

The new members of the Legislative Council will be sworn in at a meeting of the Executive Council to-morrow.

The State brickworks at Botany are to be closed down when certain contracts are completed.

The Minister for Works says there has been a loss of 12s per 1000 on the bricks turned out at Botany.

The kilns are to be leased to private companies.

The Governor-General has paid a tribute to the wisdom, tact, and Christian goodness of the late Archbishop Carr.

Judge Murray, Administrator of Papua, who has arrived in Sydney, speaks optimistically of the future of the possession.

"The year 1916-17 promises, in spite of the war, to be the best we have had, and we will certainly have a surplus," he said.

During the week ended on Saturday 655 men volunteered for service, and 428 were accepted.

Lady Holroyd, widow of the late Sir Edward Holroyd, of Victoria, died in Melbourne yesterday.

The annual conference of the Manchester Unity Order of Oddfellows was opened in the Manchester Unity Hall yesterday.

The Grand Master stated that the membership was now 40,500, and that 3990 had enlisted.

The financial statement showed total receipts of £131,801, and expenditure of £143,345, leaving a credit-balance of £48,456.

The City Council has approved of a minute recommending the demolition of buildings in connection with the Flinders-street resumptions.

The Lord Mayor says the money for the resumptions was borrowed six years ago, the interest amounting to £5000 a year.

The police have been instructed to take firm measures against fortune-tellers.

This action has been taken because of complaints that the wives and mothers of soldiers on service have been imposed upon.

The second term of the Supreme Court commenced yesterday.

A report regarding the inquiry into the conduct of the State Children's Relief Department has been issued.

The board finds that the Mittagong cottage homes, concerning which a complaint was made, are a credit to the State.

The suggestion that the Imperial Conference should meet annually is approved by Mr. Hughes.

The co-operation of the Nationalist election committees with recruiting bodies is urged by Mr. Mackinnon.

In all 979 names are mentioned in the 293rd list of casualties sustained by Australian troops abroad, issued yesterday.

Those killed in action or dead from various causes total 137, and the number of men wounded totals 625.

Owing to adverse conditions the outlook for the next wheat harvest is regarded by the Minister for Agriculture as unfavourable.

The annual conference of the Shires Association will be opened this morning.

The industrial dispute at the Mount Lyell (Tas.) mines is still unsettled.

A girl named George fell into a waterhole at Glen Innes and was drowned.

Barriers showed a firmer tendency on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and Westonias were disposed to harden.

Business in jute is at a standstill pending Government action regarding future supplies.

Forecast.—Except for some showers on the south-west slopes and some snow on the southern highlands, fine and cool generally, with squally south-west winds.

PERFECT GARMENTS —MADE YOUR WAY.
Where clothing is made on an essentially commercial basis—where quantity and not quality is demanded—your individuality is lost; the whirl of hurry-up has buried it.
Not so when you order here. We are careful, painstaking, methodical. We take an interest in and make a special study of every customer. Adopting the highly efficient methods which have made our work synonymous with perfect quality, we tailor our suits according to the individual desires and requirements of each customer.
Inspect the magnificent fast-dyed fabrics in our day-lit showrooms; there is nothing in the Commonwealth to equal them.
E. T. WALSH, EXPERT TAILOR, 123 Pitt-street, corner of Bowe-street, Sydney.

AUSTRAL OVERCOATS HAVE FOR SO LONG FIGURED IN MEN'S MINDS AS THE BASIS OF COMPARISON— the comparison of the value for price of quality of fabric and finish and of styles— THAT TO-DAY THE NAME BRAND "AUSTRAL" ON AN OVERGARMENT OF ANY KIND IS AN IMMEDIATELY ACCEPTABLE WARRANTY OF ITS SUPERIORITY.
Our showing of the New Season's Styles of Men's Overcoats and Rainproofed Garments, is but added evidence of this leadership in the outfitting of men, and maintains the character and quality of "Austral" Clothing for men as in former years.
"AUSTRAL" OVERCOATS, READY TO WEAR, 35/, 42/, 45/, 55/, 63/, 70/, 75/, 84/, 90/, 95/, 100/, 125/.

FAIR FINANCE. More so than in any other, the basis of all financial transactions should be fairness and mutual confidence. In our dealings with the public, we have always striven to attain this end. We think that the success of our business and the numbers of our well-satisfied customers is complete demonstration of the confidence with which this business is regarded. You should be most careful at all times to transact your financial business with people whom you feel you can trust. We guarantee to our customers easy terms, quick accommodation, courtesy, privacy, and consideration. We transact financial business of every kind, and make advances in town or country against furniture, life policies, deeds of vacant land or property, interests under wills, war loan bonds or certificates, shares in companies, second mortgages, or any acceptable security. We also make advances without security to approved applicants. All applications, personally or by letter, receive immediate consideration. BOSS BATH-HEATERS.
THE BOSS is an economical Water Heater that possesses points of excellence peculiar to itself, as well as every feature that stands for efficiency. It is substantially made of copper at our own factory, and quickly provides a luxurious hot bath. The water is sprayed over a large surface of heated copper immediately before it falls into the bath; the consumption of gas is thus materially reduced and the maximum heat obtained; indeed, the principle of heat radiation incorporated in THE BOSS makes it a peer among Bath-heaters.
No. 1A BOSS SPRAY WATER HEATER throws two gallons of water rapidly heated to a high temperature, thus ensuring a hot bath in a very short time. Fitted with our own combination tap, which makes the Heater practically non-explosive, the water and gas being turned on together after the pilot has been lighted. £5/10/.
No. 7 FUEL WATER HEATER can be heated by a handful of small chips, which makes it valuable for country use. The Heater throws two gallons of water heated to 130deg. Fahr. per minute. Made of copper throughout. £5/7/6
No. 7A FUEL HEATER, same as No. 7, but made of galvanised iron and Japanned. 80/.

CEMENT LAUNDRY TUBS.
BUCKLAND'S REINFORCED CEMENT LAUNDRY TUBS, as supplied to the New South Wales Government, are INFINITELY SUPERIOR to the OLD STYLE TUBS, for they DO NOT RUST, CRACK, LEAK, or SMELL. They HAVE a SURFACE LIKE MARBLE, and are easily cleaned. Measurements of 2 Compartments Tub: Length, 3ft 10in; width at top, ... width at bottom, 14in; depth, 14in. The wringer can be fitted to them as with ordinary laundry tubs. They are protected round the top with metal casing, and are fitted with brass plugs and unions, which makes connection with waste pipe simplicity itself. They do not require placing on a stand like any ordinary tubs, and once set in position they require no further attention. WILL LAST A LIFETIME. PRICES: TWO COMPARTMENTS, 45/; THREE COMPARTMENTS, ...

SECOND-HAND PIANOS.
A good many buyers, unfortunately for themselves, have the idea that a second-hand piano is a bargain.
So it might be once in a hundred times. But WHAT a risk you run. The Piano may be practically worn out for all you know, just dodged up to sell, and you lose your money.
WHY RUN SUCH AN UNNECESSARY RISK? Buy a Piano from Paling's—one fully guaranteed.
Our Easy Time Payment system makes it quite an easy matter to do so—then you can sleep in peace, knowing that you have a good piano.

hangs a card with this inscription: "In order to have a good supply of fresh meat for the manufacture of our pies, we kill half a cow every week." No half measures are resorted to in the "Rex" Kitchens to ensure the freshness and wholesomeness of
"REX" LORRAINE
SMOKED SAUSAGES.
They are made from the choicest meats, smoked to perfection, so that all the rich juices and flavour are retained. Try these sausages for breakfast. They come ready cooked, and only require heating. Their rare flavour is a new palate delight.
It is when you want a "hurry up" hot meal that you most appreciate
"REX" PORK SAUSAGE.
This delicacy consists of the tastiest, tenderest Pork Sausages you have ever tasted, surrounded by a delectable jelly. They require heating only.
Make the supper sandwiches of
"REX" LUNCHEON CHEESE.
Its piquant flavour is relished by all.

EXPEDITION
and efficient service are distinguishing features in our business methods. Prompt delivery is one of our essentials, and there is no fear that the joke about the boy who took a half-ticket at Redfern for Parkstown and was called upon to pay the other half of his fare when he reached his destination "because he had grown a beard on the journey" can ever be applied to us. To-day we invite your inspection of some specially attractive offerings in our Manchester Section.

WINNS'
SHOPPERS' GUIDE.
We are showing a very fine range of American SAMPLE COATS. These are the real pick of the AMERICAN ADVANCE STYLES.
There are dozens of styles, and in many cases no two alike, so obviously it's difficult to describe them.
They are really a Season Ahead of Australian trade; some have deep capes, and all are liberally trimmed with large buttons. If these Coats were bought locally under present market conditions they would be worth up to 105/ each.
OUR SPECIAL PRICES ARE:—
30/6, 42/6, 49/6, 59/6, 67/6 each.
One line that stands out from others on account of its seasonability is a very Heavy Tweed Top Coat, in Grey or Brown, invisible checks, with large Panne Velvet Collar and "V" shaped waist strappings, finished with buttons and velvet loops, and latest swing-back style. Worth 75/.
OUR SPECIAL PRICE, 59/6.
SEE OUR SPECIAL WINDOW DISPLAY OF SERVICEABLE WINTER COATS.
TWO SENSATIONAL VALUES IN LADIES' COATS.
At 18/11 we offer a Lady's Serviceable WINTER COAT, in ¾ length, of Brown, Dark Reseda, or Navy Tweed. Raglan sleeve, strap at back. Double-breasted collar, finished with facings of Black Velvet.
SPECIAL PRICE, 18/11.
At 19/11—Ladies' smart ¾ length Coats, in Navy Cloth. Single-breasted, step collar, belt of self, pockets at side.

THERE are a great many points of excellence that commend "Viyella" to all thinking persons.

"VIYELLA" FABRIC IS VERY HEALTHFUL.

It both absorbs and throws off the moisture of the body, allows a free air circulation, and is thus invaluable for keeping the skin healthy and preventing colds.

"Viyella" does not felt, thicken, nor shrink in the wash, is soft, light in weight, warm, and extremely dainty in appearance, durable and economical.

Sold by all high-class drapers and storekeepers. If not obtainable in your vicinity the name of the nearest retailer stocking it will be sent you on request to I. and R. MORLEY, 56 Market-street, Sydney.

IT PAYS A BUTCHER TO USE "CLEVER MARY."

You modern, progressive butchers know that a clean, attractive shop has more than £ s d value; it is your best advertisement.

"Clever Mary" removes greasy grime from your hands, aprons, and shop coats, and will clean your scales, hooks, metal bars, marble slabs, counters, knives, choppers, and tables.

Get a tin to-day, and keep it by for immediate use. You will be delighted with it.

See that you get "Clever Mary." If not in stock, a FREE sample will be mailed you on request to the Paget Manufacturing Co., Ltd., 109 Regent-street, Sydney, who also make Shi-noleum.

LAW REPORT.

HIGH COURT.

MILLER v BLAKISTON AND CO.

Robert William Miller claimed £1250 from Blakiston and Co. Proprietary, Ltd. The statement of claim set out that the plaintiff had a contract to secure the carriage of a quantity of cement from Melbourne to Brisbane, and instructed the defendants as shipping agents to ship 324 tons. He alleged that the defendants wrongfully shipped the cement on the s.s. Bellambi otherwise than on the plaintiff's behalf, and converted the same to their own use. The plaintiff's claim was for loss of profits and damages, and he further submitted that, as regards any profits the defendants might have made for dealing with the cement, they were trustees for the plaintiff.

The defendants denied the claim, and stated that the plaintiff was aware of their dealings with the cement, which were carried out with his approval. Alternatively, it was also claimed that the defendants were entitled to set-off £56 13s 6d for services rendered.

Mr. Watt and Mr. Maxwell, instructed by Mr. A. S. Boulton (agent for Mr. R. J. Horsfall, of Melbourne), appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Latham, instructed by Mr. Wilson, of Messrs. Harwood and Pincott, of Geelong, appeared for the defendant.

The case stands part heard.

FEDERAL ARBITRATION.

(Before Mr. Justice Higgins.)

A.W.U.'S CLAIM.

This case is part heard.

MARINE STEWARDS' AWARD.

His Honor on Saturday made an award on the basis of the agreement entered into between the Federated Marine Stewards and Pantrymen's Association and the Navy Department, details of the award to be drawn up by the Federal Council and submitted to the Registrar.

Mr. A. H. Moate (general secretary) appeared for the applicant union, and Mr. G. Moate represented the Victorian branch of the association, on behalf of which he had opposed the application when the matter first came before the Court last Thursday.

(Before Mr. Justice Powers.)

ENGINEDRIVERS' CLAIMS.

The hearing of the claims of the Federated Enginedrivers and Firemen's Association against the Colonial Sugar Refining Company and others was continued at the Royal Society's rooms, Sydney, yesterday, evidence previously having been taken in Melbourne. The union, for whom Mr. A. J. Pearce appeared, is applying for a variation of the existing awards by increasing the wages of enginedrivers and firemen 2s a day all round. It is also seeking to have the award made binding upon some 500 additional employers throughout Australia, including the West and Queensland.

Mr. Stanley Lewis, instructed by Messrs. Derham, Robertson, and Derham, appeared for the Colonial Sugar Refining Company and for Western Australian and Victorian respondents; Mr. T. W. K. Waldron, for the Clyde Engineering Company, and others; Mr. C. E. Manning, for the Electrolytic Co.; Mr. Kirby for members of the Employers' Federation.

After taking evidence in the morning as to the duties of crane drivers and firemen, his Honor adjourned the Court to inspect the Sydney works of Messrs. Hoskins and those of the Clyde Engineering Co.

SUPREME COURT.

IN BANCO.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Gordon.)

LAND CASE SETTLED.

Mr. Pike, who appeared for the respondent in the case Minister for Lands v Watt, said that the matter was postponed from last term in view of a pending settlement, which had since been arrived at. Mr. Hanbury Davies appeared for the Minister for Lands, and confirmed the statement. The case was accordingly struck out.

(Before the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Pring, and Mr. Justice Sly.)

DISPUTE OVER INSURANCE POLICIES.

Siagh and others v Yorkshire Insurance Company, Ltd.

Mr. A. Thomson and Mr. John M. Sanders, instructed by Messrs. Shipway and Berne, appeared for the plaintiffs in support of a demurrer to defendants' second plea; and Mr. Windeyer, instructed by Messrs. M'Lachlan and Murray, for the defendants to oppose. The action is one brought by the plaintiffs, who are merchants carrying on business in George-street West as the "Himalayan Tea Company," against the defendant company to recover under two policies of insurance on their stock-in-trade. Mr. Thomson explained that the declaration of plaintiffs in the action contained two counts on two separate awards made by arbitrators in the terms of the policies, and the action was brought for damage by fire to plaintiffs' stock-in-trade. There was an agreement that the amount of damage done was to be ascertained by arbitration before an action could be brought on the policies. The claims were heard together before arbitrators, duly appointed, and also an umpire, and an award was made in each instance for the claimants, who subsequently commenced an action to recover the sums so awarded—viz., £275 and £225. Two defences under the policy remained open, and defendants' second plea alleged fraud during the arbitration by one of the witnesses who gave evidence on behalf of the claimants. The plea was demurred to as bad mainly on the grounds—(1) that it disclosed no answer to the first and second counts of the plaintiff's declaration, (2) that it did not allege that the alleged fraudulent means were used to obtain for the plaintiffs any benefit under the policies; (3) that the matters alleged in the plea were not fraudulent means or device to obtain any benefit under the policies within the meaning of the words of the policies; (4) that the arbitrators having made their award, it was not open to defendants, by way of defence to the action, to impeach or in any manner dispute the award by alleging that any portion of the evidence so given before the arbitrators and umpire was false or fraudulent; (5) that the award, continuing in full force and effect, was binding and conclusive on both the plaintiffs and defendants, and the latter were estopped by the award from disputing that the actual amounts of the loss sustained by the plaintiffs in respect of the goods covered by the policies of insurance were £275 and £225 respectively; (6) that the question of the truthfulness or falsity of the witnesses called by the parties on such submission to arbitration was a matter entirely for the decision and award of the arbitrators and umpire, who, having given their decision in favour of plaintiffs, the defendants were not now entitled to assert as an answer to the claims that any one of the witnesses gave false evidence.

The Chief Justice (Mr. Justice Pring and Mr. Justice Sly concurring) said that the policies contained a number of clauses for the protection of the insurers against imposition. They also contained a clause providing that the ascertainment of damage in case of fire should be by arbitration, and that an award by the arbitrators should be a condition precedent to bringing an action. There was a further clause providing that if the claim was in any respect fraudulent, or, if any false declaration was made or used in support thereof, or if any fraudulent means or devise was used by the plaintiff, or any one acting in his behalf, to obtain any benefit under the policies, they should be forfeited. The plea now demurred to alleged in exact words one of the things referred to in that clause. He was, therefore, of the opinion that the plea was good, and judgment on the demurrer must be in favour of defendant.

A LAND DISPUTE.

Renshaw v Moore.

Mr. Norman Pilcher, instructed by Mr. J. T. P. Bassett, of Wellington (by his agents, Messrs. E. Prichard Bassett and Co.), appeared for the plaintiff in support of the appeal; and Mr. Flannery and Mr. M'Kean, instructed by Messrs. Kelly and Waterford, of Wellington (by their agents, Messrs. Collins and Mulholland), for the defendant to oppose. This was an appeal by the plaintiff in the action, John Ignatius Renshaw against Patrick Moore, against the decision of District Court Judge Bevan, at Wellington, on February 22, non-suiting him. It appeared that the plaintiff sued to recover compensation from defendant owing, as he alleged, to the latter not having put him in the possession of an area of 25 acres of land, forming part of 137 acres leased to him by the defendant. He also complained that the 25 acres had been conveyed to one Robert Conn. Plaintiff said that he had lost the rent paid by him for the land, and the profit he would have made. The defence on equitable grounds was that the land in question was included in the lease by mistake, and that plaintiff well knew that the 25 acres were to be excluded from the 137 acres; also that plaintiff was not prevented by defendant from getting possession of the 25 acres, and that he did not convenant to place plaintiff in possession. Judge Bevan, after hearing plaintiff's case, non-suited him, and he now appealed on the ground that his Honor's decision was erroneous.

The case stands part heard.

IN EQUITY.

(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice Simpson.)

CUSTODY OF INFANT.

In giving reserved judgment his Honor said that this was an application under the Infants Custody Act by Mrs. Christina May Mayo for the custody of the only child—Caroline Elizabeth, 2½ years old—of her marriage with the respondent, Charles Frederick Mayo. Mrs. Mayo is living apart from her husband, and the whole crux of the case was whether she was justified in leaving her husband. His Honor thought the evidence showed that Mr. and Mrs. Mayo could not live happily together. The reason, possibly, for this was that the husband was always casting in his wife's teeth certain reflections on her character. This was a sufficient justification for her leaving him.

His Honor ordered that the child be delivered to the custody of the mother till further order, which must be subject to any later order made by another Court if the matter be taken there. The husband must be allowed access to the child. As the trouble had been caused largely by the indiscreet conduct of the wife, his Honor said that he would make no order as to costs.

Mr. H. H. Mason, instructed by Messrs. Betts and Son, of Goulburn (Sydney agents, Messrs. Pigott and Stinson), appeared for the applicant, Mrs. Mayo; and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Mr. E. F. Thomas, of Goulburn (Sydney agents, Messrs. D. M. Myers and Hill), for the respondent, C. F. Mayo.

APPORTIONMENT OF ESTATE.

Ward v Kiss.

Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. Ellison Rich and Son, appeared for the plaintiffs, Selina Elizabeth Funnell (administratrix of the estate of George John Ward), and in her own right; William Henry Robinson, James Funnell, and Esther Levey; Mr. Harriott, instructed by Messrs. G. W. Phillips and Dean, for the defendant, James Kiss; Mr. Lloyd, instructed by Messrs. E. Prichard Bassett and Co. (Sydney agents for Messrs. Bland and Cunningham, of Bega), for the defendant, John Kiss.

This was a matter in which the interpretation of the Court was asked with respect to 40 acres of land in the County of Cumberland, parish of Liberty Plains. His Honor directed that the land in question be sold out of Court by the plaintiff, James Funnell, and by George Isherwood, by public auction or private contract, subject to the Master's approval. Out of the proceeds of sale certain costs were to be paid, and also shares to be paid to the following beneficiaries.—S. E. Funnell, two one-twelfth shares; W. H. Robinson, 1-12th; to Esther Levey, 1-12th; to Sarah Tynan, 1-12th; to James Funnell, 1-12th; to James Kiss, 1-12th; to John Kiss, 1-12th; to W. H. Palmer, as official assignee of two beneficiaries, 1-12th each; to George Blayton, 1-12th.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

INTERPRETATION OF WILL.

Troup v Laurence.

Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Messrs. Perkins, Stevenson, and Co. (agents for Mr. C. E. Byrnes, of Parramatta), appeared for the plaintiff, Alexander Keith Troup; Mr. L. A. Ferguson, instructed by Messrs. Laurence and Laurence, for the defendant, Charles Albert Laurence; Mr. R. H. Long Innes, K.C., and Mr. Weigall, instructed by Messrs. Macnamara and Smith, for the defendant, James Douglas Ritchie; Dr. Waddell, instructed by Messrs Minter, Simpson, and Co., for the defendant Edith Muriel Johnstone; and Mr. W. A. Parker, instructed by Mr. Wynne, for the infant defendant, Barbara Palliser Ritchie.

This was a suit connected with the will of the late John Ritchie, of Granville, who died on November 18, 1907. The testator appointed the plaintiff and Jessie Eliza Ritchie (his widow) as his executor and executrix respectively. Testator left surviving him the said Jessie E. Ritchie (who died on November 10, 1915) and four children—Robert Clyde Ritchie, Edith Muriel Johnstone (formerly Ritchie), Amy Enid Hudson (children of a first marriage), and Barbara Palliser Ritchie, the only issue of testator's second marriage with Jessie Eliza Ritchie. The defendant, James Douglas Ritchie, was referred to in the will and codicils as "special trustee." Testator left 2-5ths of the net income of the residuary trust funds to his second wife, Jessie E. Ritchie, and 3-5ths of the income, on trust, during her life or widowhood, to J. D. Ritchie, to maintain and educate the four children of the first marriage. Any unapplied residue of income in the special trustee's hands was to sink into the residuary trust funds.

The question to be decided was the validity of a family arrangement as to the renewal, on certain terms, of the partnership in existence between the testator and J. D. Ritchie. It had been agreed between testator's widow and J. D. Ritchie that so much only of 2-5ths of the income should be paid as was required for the maintenance of Mrs. Ritchie and her daughter. The remaining 3-5ths was to be paid to the special trustee as required for the maintenance of the three other surviving children. The balance was to accumulate and form a fund to be distributed between the four children in equal shares. This agreement, though not in writing, was adhered to until the widow (Mrs. Ritchie's) death.

The plaintiff asked, inter alia, that, as far as necessary, the trusts of the will and codicils be administered and executed by the Court: that the plaintiff and C. A. Laurence, as executors of Jessie Eliza Ritchie's will, be declared to be entitled to the sum of £23,270 2s 2d, the balance of the 2-5ths part of the net income not paid to the testatrix in her lifetime, and, if so, to certain accumulations. His Honor was asked to determine for what persons, and in which shares and proportions, does the plaintiff hold the said sum of £23,270 2s 2d and accumulations thereon.

His Honor reserved his decision.

DIVORCE COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Street.)

McDONALD v McDONALD.

In this part-heard case, brought by Edward McDonald against his wife, Ellen McDonald (formerly Clarke) for a dissolution of their marriage, solemnised at Brisbane in July, 1889, according to the rites of the Church of England, the hearing was concluded. Petitioner alleged desertion as the ground for his petition, and on behalf of respondent the issues were whether petitioner had by his habits or conduct induced or contributed to the matrimonial offence, and whether there had been unreasonable delay. A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months. Mr. Curtis, instructed by Messrs. Murphy and Moloney, appeared for the petitioner; and Mr. Weigall, instructed by Mr. T. J. Purcell, appeared for the respondent.

FRASER v FRASER.

Mr. Hardwick, instructed by Mr. E. R. Abigail, appeared for the petitioner, Margaret Fraser (formerly Nicholas), who sought a dissolution of her marriage with William Fraser on the grounds of desertion. The marriage took place at Sydney in May, 1909, according to the rites of the Congregational Church. A decree nisi was granted, returnable in six months.

BREAKING AND ENTERING.

Four lads were brought up for sentence on charges of breaking and entering. William Arthur Charles Seymour, who had pleaded guilty on three charges, was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour. His Honor stated that if satisfactory arrangements were made to have the accused looked after, and to pay £25 compensation, his Honor would recommend that the prisoner be given another chance. Oswald Herbert Smith was similarly dealt with. John Ford Pritchard was sentenced to 18 months, but was released as a first offender, and ordered to enter into a bond to pay £25 compensation. Sydney Campbell Page was dealt with in the same way as Pritchard.

A FIRST OFFENDER.

William Henry Mills, who pleaded guilty to the larceny of furniture, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, but the sentence was suspended under the First Offenders Act, the accused having found a surety and paid compensation.

ACQUITTED.

Dorothy Kleeber was acquitted on a charge of assaulting and occasioning bodily harm to Mary Jones. Mr. E. R. Abigail appeared for the defence.

FORGED BANK NOTES.

John Smithers and Robert Edward Mason were charged with having forged a Commonwealth banknote for £5. The case for the Crown was that the accused were found in a house in Riley-street, Surry Hills, where they were engaged in retouching forged £5 notes, which were portion of the product of a previous forgery, for which a number of persons are now undergoing imprisonment.

Mr. H. E. M'Intosh appeared for Mason and Mr. Penny for the other accused. The defence was that the accused were innocently on the premises, having been invited there by a man named Parker, and that the forged notes in the room were the latter's property.

Both the accused were found guilty and remanded for sentence.

Mr. Herbert Harris prosecuted for the Crown.

"I can't take your answer, Sir James," said Frank bluntly. "Only a day or two ago you were greatly interested in the propositions; you went fully into some part of the matters, and your last words were that we were to meet again to settle the details. What has happened to cause this sudden change therefore?"

"I have already told you."

"Pardon me, you have not done anything of the sort. Something has caused this change. You know enough of the affairs to be aware that there is a good deal of money to be made out of them; you took the precaution to inquire about me and satisfy yourself of my position and good faith. You were not only willing but anxious to handle the business last week, and now you refuse even to speak to me, and I find the door of your house shut in my face. I have a perfect right to ask the reason; the true reason, I mean," said Frank firmly. "And, what is more, I mean to know it."

"You speak very strangely, sir."

"I speak very plainly. What you are doing is casting a serious reflection upon me, and I cannot allow even Sir James Ledfield to do that."

"I have already——"

"Don't trouble to repeat it. I haven't the slightest wish to force either my acquaintance or my business upon you; but you courted both, and now turn both down as if the proposals were frauds and I myself an unscrupulous adventurer. I'll not take that lying down from any man, Sir James. Get that right out of your head, here and now, and don't forget for one instant that my father has several very rich and very powerful business friends here in London, and that they are my friends also."

"I—I don't understand you in the least. I am not to be compelled to—to take up any business unless I wish," stammered Sir James; and Frank was delighted to see that he was genuinely alarmed by the implied threat.

"That is not the point. What I demand to know is your reason."

"Demand, sir. Upon my word."

"I said demand, and I mean it. A demand in which my friends will back me to a man. You shall not be allowed to smirch my character with impunity."

"I—I have not done anything of the sort. It's—it's most preposterous."

"It would be if I were to suffer such a thing to pass unchallenged. Now will you tell me?"

"I—I decline to be questioned in this way."

"That means you won't tell me. Very well, then I'll tell you something in my turn. You put before me a list of companies for safe investment, which you said you could guarantee. I'll put that list before my friends, and see what they say about them. That's one thing. The other is that I know already what your reason is, and that others shall know it also," said Frank, with as stern a look and tone as he could assume.

"Are you presuming to use a—a threat to me?" exclaimed Sir James in considerable agitation.

"Certainly I am; and I'll add a word of caution to it. Before you compel me to carry it out, question your stepson, Mr. Harold Brettell. Good-day," and he swung away, leaving the little man staring after him with every sign of alarm, consternation, and amazement.

He had intended to make a third frontal attack that afternoon upon Curzon Square, but decided to postpone it until the following day, so as to allow time for his warning to take effect there. That he had frightened the little man he was certain, and was rather surprised when no letter came from him the next morning. Lady Ledfield was made of very much sterner stuff than her husband, however, and had probably persuaded him to let things alone.

Frank rang up Mr. Cuthbert, therefore, and told him to hurry matters. He also carried out another idea which had occurred to him. This was to write and tell Lady Ledfield that he was going to call, and what his object was. It was only a short letter.

"Dear Lady Ledfield,—Despite the cordial reception you gave me last Thursday, you have twice denied yourself to me, while Sir James followed your example yesterday in the city. I propose to call upon you this afternoon within a few minutes of your receiving this letter. The purpose of my call is to see you in regard to Miss Muriel Ledfield, and to ask the favour of an interview with her."

He hesitated whether to refer to the episode in Scotland, but decided against it, and just finished formally. When the time came, he secured a messenger boy, walked with him to the Square, and sent him to the house, with instructions to ask if Lady Ledfield was at home, and to bring the letter back to him if she was not.

The boy reported that she was at home, and five minutes afterwards Frank rang the bell. The answer was the same as before. She was "not at home."

"I think you are mistaken," he said to the man. "I have just sent a letter to her, and the messenger reported to me that she was at home. Be good enough to go and tell her I am here."

The man hesitated; but Frank had a compelling way with him. "Will you step in, sir. I'll send a footman to her ladyship."

"Thank you, no. I prefer to wait where I am," and he remained on the doorstep while his message was carried.

In a few minutes the reply came. "My lady desires me to say, sir, that she is unable to see you this afternoon, and will write a reply to your letter."

"Unable? Is she engaged?" asked Frank, determined to know where he stood.

"My lady's words were, sir, that she declines to see you, and is writing to you now," said the man.

Frank went back to the hotel to await the promised letter, but none came that day or the next. His patience was sorely tried by the long delay. He began to think that there would be no reply, that he was to be left to do what he would, and that she intended to treat him with silent defiance.

That proved a mistake, for the following morning the reply came.

"Sir,—You asked my husband for the reason of the change in our attitude toward you. You must be perfectly aware that it is due to the duplicity you practised to obtain admission to our house. We were more than willing to receive you in frank friendship, but your unpardonable deceit has made it impossible to continue your acquaintance. I have to request that you will cease to trouble any of us for the future."

Frank read the letter with a grim smile. It was a maxim of his in all matters that it was best to know the worst, but it did not weaken his determination in the slightest degree. Only Muriel herself could do that, and no difficulties or obstacles which those Ledfields could raise should be allowed to prevent him from learning her decision.

Later in the day, however, fresh and very formidable opposition was encountered all unexpectedly from a different quarter. He received a cable from his father.

"Frank Carton, Ritz Hotel, London. Imperative, drop all connection with Ledfields instantly. Come home.—Carton."

It was a bolt from the blue sky, and Frank read the message with amazement and dismay. The last thing in the world he could have expected was to find his father ranged against him on the side of Lady Ledfield.

CHAPTER VIII.

A VALUABLE WITNESS.

Frank was hit very hard by the cable from his father, and the blow was all the greater because of the peremptory terms in which it was couched, the lack of any reason for the summons home, and the fact that it was utterly at variance with the letters which had passed in regard to Muriel.

He had written very candidly about his feelings for her, and all the replies had been consistently sympathetic and encouraging. Over and over again his father had expressed the most absolute confidence in his son's choice and his readiness to welcome Muriel. And yet—this cable had come.

There could be only one reply, and he made it without delay. He cabled that it was impossible and that he would write fully. He wrote the letter at once—a clear, straightforward statement of facts in regard to the Ledfields, his fears for Muriel, and his intention to marry her, if she would accept him; a definite declaration that he could not yield to his father's wish, because his life's happiness was at stake, and that, whatever the cost, his decision was taken irrevocably. In a letter to his mother he dealt more fully with his own heart feelings; his pain at the thought of any disagreement with those whom he loved at home and who had been so good to him all through life, and he pleaded with her to use her great influence with his father to induce him to reverse his decision.

The writing of the letters did him good. It cleared his thoughts, brought him face to face with the actualities of the position, justified him to himself, and so strengthened his determination. Nothing in the world, not even his father's opposition, nothing but the fact that Muriel could not care for him, should ever come between him and her.

His father's action was an inscrutable mystery; he could not conceive any possible motive for it, and it was characteristic of him that instead of plaguing his wits for a solution he promptly devoted the whole of his thoughts to the more immediate question of dealing with the difficulties raised by the Ledfields.

ON THE LAND.

THE WHEAT OUTLOOK.

The Minister for Agriculture had something to say yesterday in reference to the general outlook for the next wheat season. Discussing the conditions under which wheat farmers in all parts of the State are labouring just now, Mr. Grahame remarked that whether it was the ploughing or the sowing or the germination of the sown wheat that had to be taken into consideration, the prevailing circumstances were anything but favourable for a good harvest.

Last season was so wet that in all parts of the wheat belt the fallowed area was greatly reduced, and the dry autumn had further delayed ploughing, while a considerable area had yet to be prepared for the drill. Even when ploughing and all necessary cultivation had been done in time for seasonable sowing, three adverse factors were in operation that would probably tend to produce a thin stand. These factors were the prevalence of mice, the quality of the seed wheat, and the dry state of the soil in which the seed had been sown. It was more than probable, the Minister went on to say, that mice would eat a proportion of the seed, and there was reason to fear that the dry seed bed would further reduce the germination, while the quality of the grain that had to be used as seed—the result of the wet spring and of the rust of which we heard so much last year—was likely to have a similar effect. The very fact that the f.a.q. for this season was fixed at 57lb per bushel expresses forcibly the conditions of the great bulk of the seed that was being used. Farmers, therefore, would do well to increase the quantity of the seed they used. Where the state of affairs was not so adverse as the Minister had indicated, and the seed bed favoured early germination, the usual 45lb per acre would be ample, but under the conditions outlined, and especially where all three factors obtained, the quantity of seed should be increased to as much as one bushel per acre, according to circumstances.

The weather conditions were likely, further, to enforce a comparatively late sowing, and should it be necessary to sow very late (after the middle of June to be precise) quickly maturing wheat like Bunyip and Firbank should be employed, and the seeding should be further increased, and not less than 70lb per acre sown. It would be wise, perhaps to add that these heavy seedings were only suggested for the benefit of farmers in the circumstances specially mentioned.

PRUNING REMINDERS.

Owing to rust and other fungus diseases this season, the stone fruits are losing their leaf early in many districts. This will allow the orchardist to make an early start with the pruning of these trees. If this work is pushed through early (remarks Mr. W. J. Allen in the current number of the "Agricultural Gazette") the winter ploughing can be proceeded with in good time, and it will be possible to pay full attention to the early spring spraying.

When pruning the peach it should be remembered that it chiefly crops on the previous year's laterals, and not on old spurs; thus it is necessary to keep up a yearly supply of young laterals. This can be done if the old laterals are taken out regularly each winter pruning, when young laterals will start from the dormant eyes at their bases. Care should be taken, when cutting out the old laterals, not to cut close enough to damage the dormant eyes. In seasons when there is a bad showing of fruit eyes it will be necessary to leave some of the two-year-old laterals which are carrying sub-laterals, or temporary spurs showing fruit eyes, but this is to be avoided as much as possible, for the longer the laterals are allowed to remain after the second year the harder it is for the dormant eyes at the base to start into growth. If the trees have been topped the previous pruning, it will probably be necessary for a number of leaders to be thinned out this season, for if the top is allowed to become too thick the trees will not furnish fresh laterals along the main branches too readily. It has also been found that in very vigorous trees which have their shape well established it is well only to thin the leaders out, and not top them back for a season. This non-topping also encourages the furnishing of laterals below.

The apricot crops both on the previous year's laterals and on older spurs, but on most varieties the tendency is for these spurs to die out after two or three seasons, starting from the base of the lateral; consequently the laterals soon produce fruit only towards their tips. This may be avoided by following a system of renewal very similar to that described for the peach. Plums, on the other hand, mostly develop permanent fruiting spurs. These can generally be obtained by leaving the laterals long in the trees, and shortening them back in later years, when the spurs are established and the trees are making less growth. In older trees, where spurs have multiplied too numerously, they should be thinned out in order to prevent over-setting, and consequent small fruit; exhausted spurs should also be removed, to encourage the growth of new spurs or laterals which will subsequently form fresh spurs.

TREATMENT FOR BUNT.

The Department of Agriculture has been carrying out some interesting experiments with a view to testing the value of the method of treating seed wheat with dry carbonate of copper as compared with the generally accepted method of pickling seed wheat with bluestone and lime. The tests have not yet reached a definite stage, but the results so far achieved are sufficient to invest the matter with considerable importance to the wheat farmer. The pickling of seed wheat as a preventive of bunt is in progress in various parts of the wheat districts, and many growers are exercised in their minds as to whether they should follow the usual method of pickling the seed wheat with bluestone and subsequently dipping it in a solution of lime water, or whether the plan of treating it with dry carbonate of copper—a method which has proved fairly successful in the departmental tests—should be given a fair trial. As the result of inquiries it has been ascertained that while the latter method has certainly been attended with success in the case of small experiments, the departmental officers are not yet in a position to recommend farmers to adopt this method of pickling seed wheat on any large scale, and for the present, at any rate, the department advises farmers to continue the treatment of their seed wheat by means of the recognised bluestone-lime system. For the benefit, however, of those growers who may desire to experiment on a small scale with the new method, namely, the carbonate of copper treatment, we give the following directions as obtained from the Department of Agriculture:—For one bushel of wheat use two ounces of finely powdered carbonate of copper, and well shake the bag containing the wheat so that each grain of wheat may become thoroughly enveloped in the dry powder. Some difficulty may be experienced in completely enveloping the grains of wheat in the fine powder, but a vigorous shaking of the bag will doubtless secure the desired result. The treatment, it may be pointed out, is not an expensive one.

VALUE OF FERTILISERS.

The value of maize as green fodder is generally recognised. The ease with which it may be cultivated, combined with the heavy yields obtained, renders it admirably suited for cultivation by farmers. Experiments in the growing of maize for green fodder have been conducted on the farm of Mr. C. Ingold, at Milton, and, according to returns received by the Department of Agriculture, the results must be regarded as satisfactory. The field was sown with Improved Yellow Dent, at the rate of 25lb of seed per acre. The following were the yields per acre:—Plot 1, sown without manure, 8 tons 11cwt 1qr 20lb; 2, with 1cwt super., 10 tons 11cwt 1qr 20lb; 3, 2cwt super. and bonedust, 10 tons; 4, 3cwt super., 10 tons; 5, 2¼cwt bonedust, super., and potash, 12 tons; 6, 2¼cwt bonedust, super., and sulphate of ammonia, 14 tons 11cwt 1qr 20lb.

The outstanding feature of the tests was the increase obtained by the use of artificial fertilisers. An almost complete manure, consisting of bonedust, super., and potash, used at the rate of 2¼cwt per acre, resulted, as will be seen from the respective yields, in an increase of 3½ tons; while a mixture of bonedust and super., and sulphate of ammonia gave an additional yield of no less than 5 tons, as compared with the unmanured plot.

ENGLISH WOOL TRADE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, March 1.

The most important development of the week has been a meeting at the Bradford Chamber of Commerce. Last week the Huddersfield wool merchants met, and have suggested a scheme to the War Office whereby each merchant shall be allowed to requisition a certain amount of wool, calculated on his pre-war turnover. This wool he will send out to his customers, whose needs he knows better than the Government, and will be recompensed by a commission. Whether the wool is to be only that needed for home and export trade, or also to include that for war purposes, is not clearly stated, but probably the former. The scheme is only a suggestion yet, and may not be accepted, but it is an effort to put constructive criticism in the place of destructive. The present Government scheme is working most unpleasantly, and there is opposition to it throughout the trade, and even among Government employees who have been taken from the industry. The Huddersfield wool merchants have put forward their idea because by it the extinction of many firms, now seriously threatened, will be avoided, and they will be able to keep their connections together, though only for a commission, ready for the great push in trade after the war.

The Bradford meeting this week was held in camera, but the following resolution was passed, every section of the Bradford trade being represented:—"It is desirable that there should be a central authority to represent all branches of the wool textile industry, and that for that purpose a committee be constituted, composed of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and trade organisations concerned; that all Government Departments be requested to recognise that committee, and to address communications to it; and that such communications be dealt with by the committee after reference of the same for consideration by the organisations of the particular branch of the trade concerned."

LONDON SALES.

The second series of London sales finishes at the end of this week. It has taken three weeks to sell 91,000 bales, the daily offerings having been very small. Last Tuesday, for example, when nothing but Government wool was submitted, only 4000 bales, all Australian, were staged. These contained many fine scoured lines, such as Eddington, Marathon, Bangate, Walhallow, and others, but most of the best wools were taken out of the sales. Had the Eddington wools been offered they would probably have made about 4s 10d or perhaps more, being about the best seen this year. The Toorak wools also were seen, but not sold, the Government taking all this mark. On Tuesday the number of bales actually available was 2300.

Another new departure on the Government's part is the withdrawal of greasy, burry Australian crossbreds. All New Zealand wools have been taken out, as well as Australian scoureds and slipes, but this week has been marked by greasy Australian crossbreds, mostly 46's and upwards, and scoured Australian merinos, being withheld also. We understand that the scoureds have not been allotted to any user yet. The Government thinks it may need them later, and it is grand wool to have in stock.

RISE IN PRICES.

Prices have remained high, and even moved higher. S. Wilson/Mount Bute wools, from West Victoria, made up to 3/6 in the grease, though they only just managed to reach the Government selling limit at that price. Sydney wools of the Ravensworth mark made 3/0½. Quality was the first consideration in these, the wools being a good deal finer than the Mount Bute, which clip is distinctly more robust than it used to be. Western Australian wools of 40 to 44 per cent. yield have sold freely at from 2/ to 2/4, the Millstream wools, at 2/4½, being exceedingly dear. Queensland wools, like Sydney's, of 52 to 53 per cent. yield have sold at up to 2/11. In scoureds, too, some big prices have been made, Queensland wools of the Eddington mark realising up to 4/8½, Marathon 4/8½, GU/H in diamond, from Adelaide, 4/7, Gibb wool, from Port Phillip, 4/10. Taking them all round, scoureds are as dear as they were in December, though the record price has not been reached again, and greasy wools are fully as dear.

The effect on Bradford has been to cause many merino topmakers to withdraw quotations, and others are all asking December rates. For 64's tops 5/9 can be made, though an ordinary article will cost this out of London, and a shafty spinners' top anywhere up to 6/6.

GOVERNMENT TOPMAKING.

The Government has announced that its fixed price for 46's tops is /34, not /35 as previously published. It will not be in a position to deliver tops to the civilian export trade except in cases of urgency for some time. Still, spinners with their own combs will be allowed to buy wool for export trade. Moreover, the Government's valuations of the standard grades of tops of all its makers has been completed, and spinners may sell yarns forward subject to supplies of tops being available. They will base their prices on the War Office fixed values for tops. Government topmakers can now answer inquiries from their customers, as they have these prices. If supplies become numerous an announcement will be made as regards further quantities for the civil trade. Those topmakers who have made special kinds of tops may possibly be allowed to continue to do so, but the output will be strictly limited to essential needs.

HEAVY BUTTER RETURNS.

A dairy farmer on the Lower Manning claims to have put up a record in regard to returns from the butter factory during December and January (says the "Kyogle Examiner"). He milked 25 cows in December and 24 in January, or an average of 24½ cows a month, which gave him a cheque for £49 7s for December and £46 18s 2d for January, a total of £96 5s 2d for the two months. This works out at an average of £1 19s 3½d per cow per month. These cows gave an average of 34lb of butter per month. The area on which they were grazed was one of the richest parts of the Lower Manning, and the cows were fed on artificial grasses (paspalum, clover, and water couch), supplemented with lucerne and green maize. The herd consists of pure Jerseys of a champion strain, with the exception of one Ayrshire, and an Illawarra cow.

FARMERS AND SETTLERS.

At the last meeting of the metropolitan branch of the Farmers and Settlers' Association motions respecting the proposed soil survey of the Commonwealth, the Yanco Irrigation Board of Commissioners, the wheat farmers' attitude respecting the pool, and the desirability of placing the Department of Agriculture under the control of duly-qualified commissioners were dealt with. A discussion took place on the following motion:—"That, in order to ensure the commercial success and encourage the harmonious development of the State irrigation schemes, we are of opinion that the services of a duly-qualified and prominent irrigationist with experience in the management of similar enterprises be obtained, to replace Ministerial control on the board of commissioners." Mr. H. G. McKinney, gave an account of the progress of the Yanco irrigation scheme. The expense of management was referred to, and was compared with that in other countries. In India, he said, he had had the management of an irrigation area somewhat similar in extent to that now being utilised at Yanco, the managerial expense of which was about £3600, which was a mere fraction of the apparent expense incurred at Yanco. He thought that a difficulty would probably be experienced in securing the services of a competent manager for the Murrumbidgee area unless a large sum was written off from the debit side of the account. The discussion on the motion was not concluded when the meeting terminated.

FEDERAL WINTER BUTTER POOL.

The seasonal shortage of butter in New South Wales having occurred more suddenly and having proved to be greater than was anticipated when the interstate conference of representatives of the advisory committees took place in Melbourne last month, it has been found absolutely necessary, in order to meet the autumn and winter requirements of this State, and to provide for the New South Wales quota of butter for the non-producing States, that all choicest grade butter now in cool store be retained and absorbed in the Federal winter pool.

Arrangements have been made by the authorities controlling the pool to call for returns of butter available, so as to prevent the storage or accumulation of any butter in individual hands, as all reservations made must be under the Federal scheme.

As the Government has assumed the responsibility of purchasing outright the butter to be reserved, and will be responsible for arrangements to ensure the butter being made available to consumers with the least possible deterioration, directions have been issued that the butter as passed by the official graders appointed under the regulations which have been framed for the conduct of the pool, must be placed in one store.

MANCHESTER UNITY ORDER

The annual conference of the Manchester Unity Order of Oddfellows was opened in the Manchester Unity Hall yesterday, under the presidency of the Grand Master, Bro. A. Turber.

A short reference was made to the war, and the Grand Master submitted a motion placing on record the unswerving loyalty of the order to the King, Empire, and our brave allies, and wishing for "a speedy and successful ending of this brutal assault on our liberties, under which we have so successfully operated in the cause of humanity."

This was unanimously agreed to, the brethren singing the National Anthem. A further resolution, placing on record the appreciation of the conference of the services rendered to King and Empire by the members of the Order who have responded to their country's call, and to the relatives of those brave heroes who have fallen its deepest sympathy, was carried in silence.

The Grand Master, in his address, said that 3990 members had answered the Empire's call—nearly 10 per cent. of its membership—and 218 of these had fallen. As to the year's work, a total gain of 641 members was shown, and at the end of last year the total membership was 40,500. As showing the large amount of work carried on by the society, the receipts from interest alone last year came to £35,000.

In the report of the board of directors for the year 1916-1917, which dealt with internal organisations, it was stated that five new lodges were opened, three closed, and eight cancelled by the Registrar of Friendly Societies. The quinquennial valuation of the society was issued by Mr. Trivett, Registrar of Friendly Societies, in October, showing an indicated surplus of £163,714.

The trustees' report stated that while the advances were nearly £30,000 less than in the previous year, yet the capital outstanding was just on £550,000, and the interest for the year £35,111, showing an increase of over £4000 on last year, equal to an advance of 2/6 per cent. on the funds controlled. The trustees were able to grant advances up to £120,563, only because the repayments of principal and interest brought in £126,911, or £3015 more than the previous year.

The report of the acting grand secretary stated that during the year the number of members enlisted was 3200. The general financial statement showed total receipts at £191,801, and the expenditure £143,345, leaving a credit balance of £48,456.

Bro. G. C. O'Brien, deputy Grand Master of the Mudgee district, was unanimously chosen as Grand Master for the ensuing year; Bro. J. P. Taylor, grand secretary.

A paragraph in the report of the board of directors, presented to the Manchester Unity conference yesterday, stated that attention had been drawn to the action of certain local branches of the British Medical Association in refusing to do lodge work outside the boundary of their residence unless mileage fees were prepaid. A strong protest against the action had been made.

The acting grand secretary said that officers of the B.M.A. had asked that if any instances occurred in which members of that body refused to attend single men who had returned from the front, no matter what their state of health was when they returned, the matter should be referred to the association.

THE NEW COMET.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A few days ago I stated that the comet recently visible in Australia to the naked eye in the early morning would probably have been seen in the northern hemisphere in the early evening in March. This appears to be correct. In the April number of "Popular Astronomy," just received, I notice that a new comet was discovered by Mr. Mellish on March 19, its position being then 2hrs 07 mins. in right ascension, and 14 degrees north declination. Computing back from the rough elements recently deduced at the Sydney Observatory, we find the position 2hrs 10 mins. and 21 degrees. Considering that between March 19 and the time of our first observation the comet swept through a very large arc of its orbit, and that the elements we obtained were based on admittedly rough positions, there can be little doubt that Mellish's comet is identical with our late visitor.

In pre-war days there was a recognised organisation for the immediate dissemination of astronomical news, the headquarters being at Kiel, but at present we have to depend on the mails or discover things independently for ourselves.

I am, etc.,
W. E. COOKE,
Government Astronomer.

THE LISTER EXHIBITION.

There is now on view at Anthony Hordern and Sons' Fine Art Gallery a fresh collection of oil paintings and water-colour drawings by W. Lister Lister to the number of nearly three score. The president of the Royal Art Society of New South Wales may be fairly appreciated as especially successful with his one-man shows by reason chiefly of the frequent contrast of theme by which he sustains the interest of the spectator. Sympathising keenly with nature, of which he is a close observer, he requires only to vary his wanderings from the coast to the forest, from breakers foaming on a wide stretch of sandy beach to woodland glimpses, or pastures beside sedge-screened rivers, to delight the eye and refresh the mind.

In the oil section "Fitful Lights and Shadows Blending" shows stately trees in deep shadow, rooted in a grassy bank, to which gleams of light give vernal tints. The left-hand foreground is occupied by shallow waters that reflect the azure of a breezy, cloud-flecked sky. There are cattle in the distance, near weeping willows; and all these different elements have been so fused and harmonised in the composition as to suggest solitude and a fruitful repose. "The Reedy Margin of the Lake" is a view near Narrabeen, at an hour when shadows fall upon the reedy foreground. The delicate massing of the foliage above the roadway, and the peculiar effect of light which suffuses the whole, should not be overlooked. "The Jetty, Palm Beach" places the spectator on a high grassy bank, with trees, below which stretches a sandy shore and a breadth of dimpling water. The warm, purplish haze which hangs over the further coast is very tenderly suggested, and the eye dwells upon it both with pleasure and instruction.

Amongst the water-colours "The River Oak" will be admired for the faithful and colourful treatment of the huge trunk, with its serpentine roots almost entirely in shadow, and sunlight enmeshed in the green foliage of the thicket behind. "Entrance to Pittwater, Hawkesbury River" shows paper-bark trees, with vivid touches, and there is an inherent suggestion of storms, which must have besieged that lonely and secluded shore to so twist them in their strenuous resistance. "The Soft Summer Evening Stole O'er the Land" is quite English in the luscious colouring of the artist's treatment, and in this and the subject, smooth pastures in sun and shadow, with cattle, it bears kinship to the manner of the English landscapist of the last generation. Pine Charm will be found in many of the minor works, in which connection "Shadows Cast by Clouds" merits study for the telling quality of the mauve-like tint passing across the furrowed stubble.

The Lister exhibition will be formally opened by Sir James Fairfax at 3 o'clock today.

MR. PRATTEN AND BELGIAN RELIEF.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Some comment on this subject has doubtless been withheld through consideration of the possibility of prejudicing the prospects of the National three in the election for the Senate. Now that the elections are decided, I feel impelled to refer to the subject of Mr. Pratten's report. Some months ago we read with surprise and consternation a cabled notice to the effect that the need for subscriptions to the fund no longer existed. To most of us the announcement seemed a wicked inaccurate one, implying as it did that the immediate and future necessities of some millions of destitute Belgians had been provided for. The inevitable effect of the paragraph was an immediate and enormous diminution in the subscriptions, an eventuality which is likely to be remembered with keen regret in days to come. Commenting on Lord Robert Cecil's statement, Mr. Pratten, after opening with the illuminating phrase, "time alters international relations," proceeds to declare that supplies have now no possible chance of reaching the Belgians. However true this assertion may be—and we are loth to accept it—it cannot be held to have possessed an equal application at the time Mr. Pratten's report was made—a time when the entry of America into the war was by no means a certainty. The matter is one for urgent and serious consideration by all Australians. The Lord Mayor of Melbourne leads the way in a prompt and practical manner by remitting £500, and the example is one which calls for commendation and emulation.

Koree, Kirribilli, Sydney, May 7.
I am, etc.,
A. E. MITCHELL.

THE TWO FRONTS.

It is plainly impossible at the present time for the most expert observer to generalise about the feeling of the Russian army or its future conduct in the war. In this war every army is thoroughly representative of the nation from which it springs. In the Russian nation the peasant element is predominant. [illegible] is highly probable, therefore, that in course of time the army will give loyal support to its generals, and follow them in defending Russia, and taking revenge on German aggression. If the crisis of the war could be delayed the Western Allies might still be confident of receiving from Russia the [illegible] of help which she gave them in 1914, and again in 1916. But at present they can have no such confidence. So far from expecting the participation of Russia in their offensive, they must wait with some anxiety to see whether she breaks away from [illegible] alliance, and thereby relieves the Central Powers of the need of keeping even a garrison on the Eastern front. It is quite clear that the army is exposed to two forces each of them inimical to the Allies. The revolutionary element, which cares for neither the Central Powers nor the Allies, has made considerable headway. Its work is seen in the establishment of committees of soldiers to confer with their officers, in the disturbances on the Aland Islands, and in the disaster on the Stokhod, which cost Russia an army corps. Its object is not to further the interests of Germany, but to bring the war to an end, and then set up some extreme form of communism in place of the Imperial Government. It is naturally supported by every German well-wisher who can make his way into the lines, and in the disguise of an opponent of all wars, attempt to relieve his country of one of her long list of enemies. The same forces operate in Petrograd as in the army, although in Petrograd the object of the anti-war party is rather to oppose the Government than to convert an impressionable army. Here, again, if the crisis were not urgent, the Western Allies could await its result without anxiety. A country of the size of Russia is bound in the end to entrust its Government to men of authority and experience, such as the Prime Minister and the Minister for War, unless it is again to submit itself to a despotism. But at present there is a danger lest the Provisional Government be overwhelmed by extremists, and some step taken fatal to the honour or the safety of Russia.

We are reminded that the population of Petrograd is not typical of Russia, either in thought or in origin. It is cosmopolitan, whereas Russia is nationalist: it includes large German and Finnish elements, each of them equally hostile to the Russian people, as well after as before the revolution, and it teems with all manner of varieties of doctrine, most of them anti-patriotic, and all of them unpractical. The Russian Government must curse the day when Peter the Great gave his country its window on Europe, and dealt the first blow to its primitive civilisation. But it is unfortunately the seat of government. It has regiments on guard whose feelings by no means incline them to a war for Russian honour, and it may therefore at any time force some numbers of the Government to resign or to agree to a decision at variance with their own previously declared policy. There can be no doubt that the hope of peace with Russia has influenced the Chancellor in delaying his statement of German war aims, and will have considerable bearing on the statement when made. The Socialist party has been the government agent in attempting to bring about an understanding on the basis of no annexation, as they had previously tried to do with France. There is no reason to impute any lack of sincerity to the Socialists in their efforts. The minority for two years past has denounced annexations, and, it should be noted, has rejected the terms offered by the Allies with the same emphasis. But the Chancellor has not as yet stated whether the terms acceptable to his Government incline to the moderation of the Socialists or the claims still urged upon him by the rich merchants and landowners, the National Liberals and Agrarians. The statement that any demand for indemnities will interfere with the Austrian negotiations is an indication of the political controversy now being fought out. German politicians know well that, though negotiations are carried on through Austria, they are directed by the German Government, but they may still believe that pressure is being put on the stronger party by the weaker, and that nothing but a statement of moderate aims will relieve it. Whatever Austria may think, the Chancellor has to satisfy his own constituents, large numbers of whom are not prepared to submit to further hardships except in self-defence. The statement when it comes will fill in the details of the Note to America in the light of the momentous events which have happened since. If it does not repeat the insolence of that unfortunate document it is bound to be drafted on the assumption that the war will be ended by the destruction of British communications with Europe, and that the Western line can be held until the submarine has done its work. The Allies, knowing the object of the speech, will have no reason to expect from it any terms that they can accept. In all the quarrels of the German Parliament no member has ever suggested that such terms would be possible. To find the real prospects of peace the Allies must look to the armies in the West, to their steady progress, and to the immensity of the burden now laid upon them. Whatever depression may be caused by the dissensions in Russia will be removed by the achievements of the French, where the nation that a year ago was said to be exhausted presses on from one success to another, and daily adds to its huge toll of prisoners.

LABOUR'S SURPRISE.

Now that the election is over, and the result is a clear Nationalist victory, it is interesting to learn what the vanquished think of their position. The president of the Political Labour League says that the result came as a surprise to his party. This shows a certain lack of astuteness on the part of those who carried out the campaign for the caucus party. They seem to have committed the blunder of thinking that the referendum of October 28 was conducted on purely party lines. In its search for a feasible explanation of its defeat the caucus party asserts that there was an enormous amount of money at the disposal of the Nationalists, and to this Mr. Doyle says he personally attributes the defeat. Here again the P.L.L. president hits wide of the mark. It is a poor compliment to those who were formerly supporters of the P.L.L. to say that they sold their votes for money. No reasonable man could assume that such was the case. One cannot win elections with money only in a free democracy like this. In the past the old Liberal party always had more money at its disposal than the original Labour party, but that did not ensure it success. Money is only useful as it can create an organisation; and the kind of organisation that is paid for is never as efficient as the kind that has as its basis the warm enthusiasm and almost religious fervour of a cause believed to be just. It is such belief that the caucus party now lacks. It is difficult to work up enthusiasm in favour of a secret junta.

The old-time Labour party is a very different proposition from the present caucus party. The old-time shibboleths have lost their efficiency in these days of war. There is little use agitating for a shorter day when millions of men are working double and treble shifts at a never-ending task in Europe. It carries no weight to talk of the iniquities of the capitalist when the sons of every class in the community are fighting side by side in the trenches in France. It sounds senseless to gird at monopolies when the greatest monopolist to-day is the Commonwealth itself, which has interfered with the most important industries for the common good with no word of protest from those whose livings have been wiped out in the process. Events have moved too fast for those who remain under caucus rule. They have been left far in the rear, and yet seem to believe that they are still in the forefront of the battle. The war has placed many preconceived notions in the melting pot. Old economic laws have been scrapped. A new world is in the making, and only those who possess the keenest intellect can even dimly follow what is happening. The relationship between Capital and Labour will never again be precisely what it was three years back. Even the relationship between the sexes in the economic sphere is being deeply modified. So the old-time Labour platform, advanced as it was regarded a few years back, is now obsolete. It must be recast to suit the altered conditions. It no longer serves the needs of any considerable section of the community. Those who first refused to be any longer bound by it, who for a principle were prepared to leave their old comrades, perceived what was happening. Those who remained thought too slowly. The problems of tomorrow bear little resemblance to the problems of the immediate past. They have a wider scope. Australia is no longer an isolated island somewhere in the Antipodes far removed from the clash of international rivalries. We are now a nation with a foreign policy that for the time at least obscures mere matters of minor domestic concern. The caucus party must lift its eyes from the dust in front of it if it is ever to rise again as a power in the land. When it has purged itself of its old ideas it will find that it has a useful function. Healthy criticism upon rational lines will remain for it, and if it fearlessly does its duty in opposition in this respect it will serve a useful purpose.

CLEANING UP.

The State National Government has made an effective beginning in the inevitable cleaning-up process. Its latest move is to shut down the State Sand Brick Works at Botany, which proved a wholly thriftless undertaking. Doubtless there are other State industrial enterprises which should meet with a similar fate. In these days the luxury of carrying on unprofitable State enterprises is too expensive to be lightly borne by the overweighted taxpayers. Since its assumption of office the Nationalist Government has done a considerable amount of necessary preliminary work. It has terminated the Norton Griffiths contract, which should never have been entered into. The elevator scheme has been postponed, if not finally shelved, till after the war; and here the previous Government fell into the error of moving too slowly. We should have had the elevator system installed to-day had any foresight been shown by those in authority. Instead they waited till the cost of all materials became so heavy that the scheme was impossible. In getting rid too of that costly incubus of the United States Commercial Agency under Mr. Nielsen, the present Government was well advised, for any business man could tell them that it was quite useless for the purpose it was supposed to serve. Much more cleaning up remains to be done before it can be said that all signs of public extravagance have been obliterated in this State. It rests with the Government to see that the hard-earned money of taxpayers is not squandered in these days of heavy Federal taxation for war purposes. Before we are very much older we may find that new devices for raising money are being tried to enable the new National Government in the Commonwealth to carry out its war obligations, and while the war is still with us the Commonwealth Treasurer has first claim upon our resources. When the clash of arms ceases it will be necessary to take very careful stock of the position to see that both State and Commonwealth get their due. There will not then remain over-much to go round.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro Ferguson presided at a meeting of the finance committee, and also at a meeting of the central council of the Australian branch of the British Red Cross Society, held at Admiralty House yesterday afternoon.

The Lady Susan FitzClarence, Madam Melba, Colonel Burns, M.L.C., and Sir Alexander MacCormick were the guests of their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Helen Munro Ferguson at luncheon at Admiralty House yesterday.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor received an official visit from Mr. J. J. Cohen, Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, yesterday morning.

His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by Captain the Hon. B. Clifford, A.D.C., presided at the annual public meeting and concert of the Granville Brotherhood at the Town Hall, Granville, last evening.

The Lord Mayor received a communication yesterday intimating that he had been elected president of the New South Wales committee of the Australian Town Planning Conference and Exhibition at Adelaide.

The Apostolic Delegate, Archbishop Cerretti, arrived at Melbourne by the Sydney express yesterday afternoon. It was his intention to pay a farewell visit to the late Archbishop Carr, and it was only on arrival at Seymour yesterday morning that he learned of his death. The Apostolic Delegate will preside at the funeral on Saturday.

At the meeting of the City Council last night, a resolution, moved by Alderman Barlow, and seconded by Alderman Sir Allen Taylor, was carried unanimously congratulating the Lord Mayor (Alderman R. D. Meagher) on his appointment to the Legislative Council, and on the distinction conferred upon him by his Majesty the King in regard to the retention of the title honourable.

It has been already pointed out that the Arcadian, recently torpedoed, was known in these waters as the Ortona; but it may be noted that Captain Lavington, now living at Watson's Bay, commanded her in 1901-2, as also the Orizaba, Oróya, and Oruba. He served 24 years with the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, of Liverpool, and for 19 years sailed in the Orient Pacific line to Australian ports.

At yesterday's sitting of the annual conference of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows, a motion of congratulation to Mr. J. H. Wise, of the Independent Order of Rechabites, upon his appointment to the Legislative Council was unanimously agreed to.

Cable advices received from London state that Mr. Norman Brookes has been appointed one of the British Red Cross Commissioners in Mesopotamia. He leaves London within a fortnight for Basra.

Mr. W. D. S. MacDonald, Minister for Agriculture and Mines in New Zealand, with Mrs. MacDonald, will leave Sydney for Melbourne on Wednesday evening.

THE "SYDNEY MAIL."

The Federal elections are naturally given prominence in this week's "Mail." Hospital Friday is pictorially treated, and there are fine photographs of the review of New Zealand and New South Wales reinforcements by the Governor-General at Liverpool. An attractive "double-page" contains interesting pictures bearing on our wheat-growing, dairying, grazing, and pastoral industries. An example of private enterprise in the development of the Northern Territory is illustrated, the example being Vesty's meat-preserving and freezing works. It is said that the company has expended about £2,000,000 in the Territory. "War Workers in Four States" is the title of a page of pictures, which show various activities of our women in New South Wales, Queensland, Victoria, and South Australia. Anzac Sunday in Melbourne is the subject of an excellent page photograph. Very interesting is an illustrated account of the work of the Orthopaedic Gymnasium at Randwick Military Hospital; various machines are shown by means of which bone, joint, and muscle troubles are treated. There are pictures from Sinai of the Anzac Mounted Division, and a portrait of Lieutenant-Colonel Harold M'Intosh, whose death from wounds in Palestine is reported. The "Outdoor Australia" page deals with kangaroo-hunting in Queensland.

DARDANELLES.

COMMISSION'S REPORT.

A copy of the report of the Dardanelles Commission has now reached Sydney. The findings of a majority of the commission, as well as a comprehensive summary of the report, were cabled from London early in March. In the report, excisions, which have been made for diplomatic, naval, or military reasons, are shown by asterisks.

Dealing with events from February 16 to 26, 1915, the commission places on record that Sir Maurice Hankey (Secretary to the War Council) stated in a memorandum that a series of acute discussions took place at the War Council on February 19, 24, and 26. "Subsequent events proved," the report continues, "that the decisions taken during this period marked a very important epoch in the first stage of the Dardanelles operations. It was in the course of these ten days that the views of Lord Kitchener, who was in reality the leading spirit of the triumvirate which was conducting the war, underwent a considerable change. The first point which must strike anyone who has carefully studied the documents, and listened to the evidence, is that the original idea of possibly breaking off the attack on the Dardanelles, which had manifestly been waning ever since its first conception early in January, altogether disappeared from the purview of the responsible authorities by the middle of February. At the meeting on the 24th, Lord Kitchener said that he 'felt that if the fleet would not get through the Straits unaided, the army ought to see the business through. The effect of a defeat in the Orient would be very serious. There could be no going back. The publicity of the announcement had committed us.' In accordance with the decision arrived at on February 16 the Admiralty had been preparing transports to convey the 29th Division to the Mediterranean. It was calculated that their departure would commence on the 22nd. On the 20th, however, Colonel Fitzgerald, Lord Kitchener's personal military secretary, called at the Admiralty and stated that it had been decided that the 29th Division were not to go. This decision led to an acute difference of opinion between Lord Kitchener and Mr. Churchill. Another meeting of the War Council was held on March 3. By this time Lord Kitchener's opposition to the despatch of the 29th Division had apparently weakened. On the question being raised by Mr. Churchill he said that he 'proposed to leave the question open until March 10, when he hoped to have heard from General Birdwood.' General Birdwood, however, arrived at the Dardanelles by the 10th. On the 5th, he telegraphed to Lord Kitchener: 'I am doubtful if the navy can force the passage unassisted. In any event the forcing of the passage must take a considerable time; the forts that have been taken up to the present have been visible and very easy, as the ships could stand off and shoot from anywhere, but inside the Straits the ships are bothered by unknown fire.' This was followed on the 6th by a telegram to the following effect: 'I have already informed you that I consider the Admiral's forecast is too sanguine, and though we may have a better estimate by March 12, I doubt his ability to force the passage unaided.' On March 10, Lord Kitchener, being then somewhat reassured as regards the position in other theatres of war, and being also possibly impressed by General Birdwood's reports, announced to the War Council that 'he felt that the situation was now sufficiently secure to justify the despatch of the 29th Division.' The sixth phase in these transactions was thus reached. The decision of February 16, the execution of which had been suspended on the 20th, again became operative on March 10. In the meanwhile, three weeks of valuable time had been lost. The transports, which might have left on February 22, did not get away till March 16. It is with great reluctance and hesitation that we comment on these proceedings, for it is obvious that Lord Kitchener was mainly responsible for the decisions taken during the critical period between February 16 and March 10, and it is quite possible that, were he alive, he might be able to throw a new light upon them. Nevertheless, we think it is incumbent on us to state the conclusions at which, with the evidence before us, we have arrived.

"Lord Kitchener's position at this time was one of great difficulty. With the forces at his disposal he had to provide for home defence and also for maintaining an adequate force both in Flanders and Egypt. Was he to add to the demands which he had to meet the further liability of undertaking an additional military operation on a large scale in another and distant theatre of war? It can be no matter of surprise that he hesitated to do so. Subsequent events showed that the fears he entertained for the immediate future were groundless, but to impute any shadow of blame on that account would involve judging by the light of the wisdom which is the product of after-knowledge. Dealing, however, solely with the evidence which was available at the time, it certainly seems strange that the actualities of the situation should not have been more fully realised both by Lord Kitchener and his colleagues. From the moment when large bodies of troops were massed in the immediate neighbourhood of the Dardanelles, even although they were not landed, the situation underwent a material change. Whatever may have been the intentions of the Government, the public opinion of the world must have been led to believe that an intention existed of making a serious attack both by land and sea.

The loss-of-prestige argument, therefore, naturally acquired greater force than had been formerly the case. From the time the decision of February 16 was taken there were really only two alternatives which were thoroughly defensible. One was to accept the view that by reason of our existing commitments elsewhere an adequate force could not be made available for expeditionary action in the Eastern Mediterranean; to face the possible loss of prestige which would have been involved in an acknowledgment of partial failure, and to have fallen back on the original plan of abandoning the naval attack on the Dardanelles, when once it became apparent that military operations on a large scale would be necessary. The other was to have boldly faced the risks which would have been involved elsewhere, and at once to have made a determined effort to force the passage of the Dardanelles by a rapid and well-organised combined attack in great strength. Unfortunately, the Government adopted neither of these courses. Time, as Mr. Asquith very truly said to us, was all-important. Yet for at least three weeks the Government vacillated and came to no definite decision in one sense or the other. The natural result ensued. The favourable moment for action was allowed to elapse. Time was given to the Turks, with the help of German officers, to strengthen their position, so that eventually the opposition to be encountered became of a far more formidable character than was originally to have been anticipated. Moreover, even when the decision was taken, it was by no means thorough.

Referring to the results of the operations, the report says:—"The attempt to force the Dardanelles and to reach Constantinople failed. It would, however, be an exaggeration to say that the expedition, considered as a whole, was a complete failure. Such was by no means the case. The enterprise was originally undertaken in order to create a diversion in favour of the Russians. In this respect it may be said to have been very fairly successful. Another point to which great importance was attached was to influence the attitude of all the Balkan States, and especially to secure the neutrality of Bulgaria. That neutrality was not secured, but it can scarcely be doubted that, had it not been for the Dardanelles expedition, Bulgaria would have joined the Central Powers at a far earlier date than was actually the case. Further, a large force of Turks, which might have been employed in other theatres of war, was for some long while immobilised."

THE EQUITY COURT SCENE.

Mr. E. N. Daly, secretary of the Incorporated Law Institute of New South Wales, writes:—

"The Council of the Incorporated Law Institute of New South Wales has unanimously placed on record its sympathy with his Honor Mr. Justice Simpson, Chief Judge in Equity, and its indignation at the outrageous attack lately made upon him in his Court.

SOLDIERS' SETTLEMENT.

The officials entrusted with the work of settling soldiers upon the land state that the initial difficulties are being surmounted, and the group system of settlement already shows evidences of far-reaching and highly beneficial results.

Some seventy-odd soldiers are now included in the different groups in process of formation, and a number of the earlier ones are already proving their fitness for their occupation. However, as in Queensland, it is found that the heavier class of work associated with preparing farms over-takes the strength of the greater number, and it will be necessary to employ labour to bring the areas to the first productive stage. The necessity, however, of having the settler fully alive to all his farm's future necessities is recognised, and he is expected to take part in all the work pertaining to his area as far as his physical strength allows.

Some measure of the success of group settlement, it is stated, will depend upon the overseers, and they have been instructed that, while exercising firmness, they are to extend the utmost consideration in all ways.

RECRUITING.

The chairman of the State Recruiting Committee, Professor Macintyre, stated that we have fought been fighting our political battles, but all the time the greater battle in Europe is growing to a head. In our political battle there has been a confusion of cries, and some said the battle was about one thing and some said another. But in the Empire battle the issues are clear and of supreme importance. It is not a question of which party shall rule the country, but whether there will be a country left for us to rule. Now that our household wrangling is over, it is time to turn our attention to the enemy who would burn our house over our head. What then is it we are fighting for?

Briefly put the following are what we are fighting for:—

For the honourable obligation to observe treaties, and not to treat them as mere "scraps of paper."

For the right of small nations to live.

For the putting down of militarism.

For the righting of the wrongs of Belgium, whose loyalty, courage, and sacrifice stayed the first rush of German troops.

For the preservation of the Empire which Germany would overthrow in order that she might dominate the world.

For the freedom of Australia to mould her own future according to the mind of her own people.

For the protection of our homes and our women from German ruthlessness.

For the right to regulate the conditions of our own life, its work and wages, which would no longer be ours if Germany won.

For preventing Germany from planting colonies near our Australian coast, and so threaten the future of Australia.

For the end of all wars by substituting peaceful arbitration, compulsory arbitration if necessary.

For saving us from a sham peace, which would involve the Empire in huge expenditure on military preparations and in future wars.

For the right of the people, by their elected representatives, to determine questions of peace or war.

Is this not a cause worth fighting for?

With the close of political campaigns, recruiting efforts will have more scope. In Balmain this week a concentrated effort will be made for recruits for the A.I.F. Open-air meetings will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, at Unity-square, at the junction of Beattie and Darling streets, in Rowntree-street, near the post-office, and at National-street, Rozelle. On Thursday and Saturday evenings there will be meetings also in the vicinity of the post-office, East Balmain. Bands will be in attendance and strong teams of speakers will address the gatherings. Mr. W. Mahoney, Mr. John Storey, M.L.A., and Mr. John Quirk, M.L.A., have been asked to speak. The local recruiting officer will make arrangements to have any recruits examined at once or on a later date if desired.

"THE N.R.A. 150."

Captain H. Dakin, the secretary of the N.R.A., who is organising the reinforcement unit of 150 riflemen, which he proposes to take to the front, reports that a number of additional names have been received. Mr. T. Jones, president of the New England District Rifle Clubs' Union, was in Sydney on Saturday for the purpose of completing arrangements for recruiting in his district, where the matter is being taken up enthusiastically, and promises of support are good. The clubs competing in the D grade competition of the Metropolitan Union were addressed by Messrs. George Douglass and J. B. Thomson at Randwick range on Saturday afternoon. It was emphasised that the men enlisting in this unit can train together and fight together. Captain Dakin left last night in continuation of his Riverina campaign, and will be at Temora to-day, at Gundagai on Wednesday, Adelong on Thursday, and Murrumburrah and Harden on Friday.

TO-DAY'S MEETINGS.

Haymarket, corner Hay and George streets, 1 p.m.: Miss Lair, Lieutenant Forsythe, Sergeant Browne, Sergeant Cathcart.

Colonial Sugar Refinery, Pyrmont, lunch-hour, 12.15 p.m. to 1 p.m.: Mrs. Clarence Linden, Lieutenant Macqueen, Sergeant Devlin.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

In Victoria to-day 66 men volunteered, and 31 were accepted.

PAPUAN PROGRESS.

Judge Murray, Administrator of Papua, is at present in Sydney, and will proceed to Melbourne to-morrow. In the course of a statement yesterday he said:—

"The year 1916-7 promises, in spite of the war, to be the best we have had, and will certainly conclude with a surplus. As regards exports, there will unfortunately be a falling-off in gold, but this should be more than counterbalanced by increases in the export of plantation produce, especially rubber. Papuan agriculture, which hardly existed when the Commonwealth assumed control in 1906, has passed through the experimental stage, and must now be accepted as an established fact. We have had many difficulties to contend with—a scanty labour supply, a backward population, consisting largely of cannibals and head-hunters, a rugged and most difficult country, and a climate alleged to be deadly beyond that of other tropical lands; and there was also the fact that ours was the first attempt made by Australians in tropical administration, and we had therefore to overcome the distrust attaching to what was regarded as a very doubtful and perhaps undesirable experiment. We can say now that the experiment has succeeded, and that, in spite of all these obstacles, Papua has definitely proved itself, and that, whatever temporary embarrassment may be caused by the progress of the war, the future of the territory is secure.

"We receive a subsidy of £30,000 a year, and I am submitting a scheme which, if approved, will provide for the gradual extinction of the subsidy without any loss of efficiency in administration."

LATE ARCHBISHOP CARR.

His Excellency the Governor-General, upon receiving news yesterday of the death of Archbishop Carr, of Melbourne, telegraphed as follows to the Apostolic Delegate (Archbishop Cerretti):—

"Greatly grieved by receiving news of the death of Archbishop Carr, to whom I was much attached. I sympathise with the Catholic Church in the loss it has sustained by the death of one whose wisdom, tact, and Christian goodness endeared him to the Australian people."

GRANVILLE BROTHERHOOD.

The Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen, presided over the seventh annual meeting of the Granville Brotherhood at the Granville Town Hall, last night, there being a large gathering present. An address was delivered by Archbishop Wright on the importance of character in national efficiency. Character, he said, was the basis of leadership.

SOLDIERS HONOURED.

Mrs. M. Baxter, of Lithgow, has been informed that her husband, Corporal Thomas Baxter, has been awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal for conspicuous gallantry in action.

BROKEN HILL, Monday.

News has been received that Driver Herbert Leslie Arthur, of Broken Hill, has been awarded the Military Medal for bravery in the field. Driver Arthur, who was born in Broken Hill, is 26 years of age. He was wounded at Gallipoli and in France.

WAR TIME IN LONDON

(BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

British Army Organisation.

LONDON, March 1.

Introducing the Army Estimates last week, Mr. Forster, Financial Secretary to the War Office, made a long and comprehensive survey of matters military. Short of assurance that the victory we expect is at hand, it was as heartening a statement as we could desire, and at its most heartening, perhaps, in its account of the operations in Mesopotamia, where, far from the central scenes of war, a British army is raining blows on the [illegible] defiant Turk of that field of operations. Swept from Kut, he is now engaged in a retreat fast developing into a rout, with General Maude's gallant army, who have fought their way up the Tigris, hard upon him, and inflicting heavy losses. This result is almost all we have of months of arduous preparation for it by the British command and great work especially in the matter of railway and river communications. As to the western front Mr. Forster warned us of the probable end of the present German retreat in a carefully selected position calling for hard fighting, and for evidence of the magnitude of operations accessory to war he mentioned that there had been supplied to the armies in the field 25 million gas helmets, [illegible] million sandbags, 105 million yards of khaki cloth, and 115 million yards of flannel. As to other commodities, 32,000 cooks last year passed through courses of instruction, while changes for the better in the soldiers' food ration had been made with a saving of £4,000,000 a year. The glycerine story, too, was impressive. Table refuse that used to be thrown away is now carefully searched for fats, with the result that 1000 tons a year of refined glycerine is being extracted from them, and 1000 tons of glycerine mean 2,500,000 charges for 18-pounder shells.

National Service.

The attempt to induce 500,000 people over military age to offer themselves for national service in various avocations has resulted so far in an enrolment of 100,000. But there is no enthusiasm about the scheme, and generally its organisation is regarded as somewhat muddled. No effort was made until quite recently, for instance, to convince professional men that they would not be required to undertake wholly unsuitable manual work. Indeed, it was not clear from the documents first issued, which contained a list of artisan occupations, that professional men were wanted at all. Now, however, it is urged upon all such that they are wanted, and urgently wanted, and that the work desired of them will be work of a suitable sort. That has cleared up one obscurity, but there are others, and something more of care in the detail of organisation and appeal will have to be forthcoming if the required results are to be secured.

The Chancellor and the Socialists.

Indirect suggestion that Germany is defeated, that many people in Germany know it, and that even the German Chancellor fears it, comes to us in the news that there is increasing rapprochement between Bethmann-Hollweg and Herr Scheidemann, the leader of the majority Socialists in the Reichstag. In case of Germany's defeat, at any rate, the mutual advantage of such an alliance is obvious. For the military caste, and with it all junkerdom, would in that event be utterly disgraced, if no worse. The Chancellor knows this, and knows also that it would be to his own interests to have ready other support for himself in advance of such a catastrophe. So, it seems, he has provided for the future by medium of Herr Scheidemann. That Socialist's ideals have often been expressed, and are quite familiar. They comprise the demand for a responsible people's government and universal franchise, among other things. Those objectives, we are told, Bethmann-Hollweg would, after the war, be disposed to concede to the Socialists. He fears, that is to say, that after the war the people of a defeated Germany will look to other leaders than those that will have brought them to such a pass, and he is making plans that suggest him as believing the result to be more than probable.

Soldiers' Pensions.

The new scheme of pensions, operative next month, adds £6,500,000 to the liability of the State in respect of disabled soldiers, and the dependents of fallen soldiers, and brings the total amount necessary for this purpose to £25,000,000. The disablement pensions are increased to a rate which gives a private soldier who has lost two limbs or his sight 27s 6d a week, with increased allowance also for his children. In cases where pension and allowances and his new wages do not amount to his pre-war earnings he may be given an alternative pension up to 75s a week. Widow's allowances and those of their children are also increased to 13s 9d if she is under 45, and to 15s if she is over that age, with such amounts for children as will give her, if she has a family of eight, 35s 9d a week. Widows with children may also, in cases where their allowances do not equal pre-war earnings, be awarded in place of those allowances pensions up to a maximum of 25s weekly. There is provision, too, for motherless children, the person supporting whom will receive 5s to 7s a week for the first, and 6s for each subsequent child; parents will receive up to 15s weekly on account of sons upon whom they depended; other dependents, instead of separation allowances, will get pensions up to 5s weekly, and unmarried wives of fallen soldiers will receive 10s weekly for themselves for a period ending 12 months after the war, and allowances for their children. It was announced yesterday in the House of Commons that some 700,000 persons are now entitled to pensions, and that great aggregate increases daily.

The New British Soldier.

The editor of the official organ of the French troops, the "Bulletin of the Armies of the Republic," has lately written an appreciation of the British soldier of the present day in another aspect than that of his fighting capacity. It is the military elegance of the new Tommy which has attracted to him the pen of this admirer. For one thing his vigour. "I saw some troops landing," says this writer. "They stepped ashore with an agile movement and ran to take their places in long lines of khaki. Then, all of a sudden, they wheeled about and marched off with a gay and sprightly step. . . . On the drill-ground the British soldier looks perfectly natural and alert. His elastic and well-balanced step gives him a less heavy and massive appearance than that of our troops. Their columns on the march seem to negotiate more freely the bends in the road and the undulating ground. . . . The British instructors give more attention than we do to what are called parade movements. In France, before the war, everything was sacrificed to that, and the men passed most of their time in the barracks preparing for reviews and similar displays. Now all has gone to the other extreme, and military style and bearing have become absolutely neglected. We are thus running the risk of losing the traditions which have come down to us from Napoleon's army. The British have taken up those traditions and have become among all our Allies the most conservative in the matter of military elegance. It would be a mistake to see in this only a veneer. The training imposed upon recruits when they start military life is never forgotten. I saw a section returning from the trenches. As soon as they left the actual field of battle behind them the men of their own accord formed up in fours, and it was a matter of surprise to me to notice that the non-commissioned officers had never to use their authority to keep them well in time even when marching over the shell-torn ground."

Disabled Australians and the Red Cross.

Though the scheme is not, I understand, officially approved as yet, the Australian Red Cross has in view the taking over of the project by which Australian disabled were to be trained in the Lord Roberts workshops and the institution of workshops of their own. As it stands, the project is a comprehensive one. It includes the equipment of workshops on the best scale, and the teaching of mechanical engineering in various of its branches, wireless operating, glass-blowing, tool-making, and a number of other avocations, and the instruction is to be made available in the hospitals while they are waiting at the hospitals for their artificial limbs. It is understood that upwards of 100 men have expressed a wish to take advantage of the scheme, which is certainly in the way of being a vigorous extension of the already splendid work of the Australian Red Cross, but we are still in doubt whether the Government will not adhere to its plan of taking the soldiers back to Australia and making provision for their training there.

FRENCH ATTACK.

6100 PRISONERS.

APPALLING ENEMY LOSSES.

LONDON, May 7.

The French communique issued at midnight on Sunday says:—

North-east of Soissons we completed yesterday's successes, and extended our conquered ground by capturing, in local operations, several important strong points north of Laffaux and north of Braye-en Laonnois.

There was a furious artillery duel in the whole of the region of the Chemin-des-Dames, where the Germans again launched strong counter-attacks against our positions at Froidmont Farm, on the Vauclerc Plateau, and in the Craonne sector. We everywhere maintained our gains, and repulsed the enemy, inflicting heavy losses.

During one of these attacks a German battalion was caught by our fire, and retreated in disorder, leaving a great part of its effectives on the ground.

So far, for Friday's, Saturday's, and Sunday's operations, 6100 prisoners have been counted, and seven heavy guns. One army corps took 1800, and, on a front of 2½ miles, captured almost the whole of the Hindenburg line.

A French communique issued on Sunday afternoon stated:—North of Soissons the Germans delivered at night time a large number of counter-attacks with large effectives against the positions we captured yesterday. The struggle was particularly violent in the region of Laffaux, north of Froidmont Farm, north of Braye-en-Laonnais, and north-east of Crouy. Everywhere the enemy's efforts were smashed up and the assaulting waves beaten back by our fire or bayonets. We entirely maintained our gains, which we are now organising. We have confirmed that the Germans suffered sanguinary losses in both yesterday's fighting and in their counter-attacks last night.

Generally the operations carried out on Friday and Saturday were in harmony with the British operations, and rendered us masters of a crest on which Chemin-des-Dames runs and a front of 19 miles.

Our air squadrons dropped eight tons of bombs on military establishments, railway stations, bivouacs, and factories. Four enemy aeroplanes were brought down.

BRITISH FRONT.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's late report on Sunday night says:—

The German attacks on the Hindenburg line east of Bullecourt were particularly severe. The enemy has thrown in heavy forces, which we repulsed after fierce fighting.

We repulsed two counter-attacks this morning, in which the enemy endeavoured to recover a section south of the Souchez River which we captured last night.

We drove off raids south of Acheville and west of Hulluch. We had no casualties. We successfully raided south-east of Loos. There has been reciprocal artillery fire north of the Scarpe.

AERIAL SUPERIORITY.

Six British aeroplanes encountered 15 to 20 Germans. The enemy broke up our formation, but our machines continued to support each other, and brought down five Germans. The others retired. All of ours returned, much shot about. The total number of German machines brought down yesterday was 11. Two British machines are missing.

GERMAN REPORTS.

(Admiralty—per Wireless Press.)

A German official message on Sunday stated:—We repulsed strong English advances south of Lens, the Scarpe, and Queant. A fruitless British attack made on a front of 1½ mile, between Villers Plouich and Gonnelieu, suffered heavy losses.

The French artillery on the Aisne developed the greatest power yet recorded in preparation for a renewed attack by fresh divisions yesterday morning, between the Allette and Craonne, on a front of 22 miles. A hand-to-hand struggle was continued late into the night. We entirely repulsed the attack. We occupy the northern slope of Chemin-des-Dames.

The French occupied Chevreuy and Winterburg height, where our positions were completely destroyed. We took several hundred prisoners.

French attacks east of Laneuville, south-west of Nauroy (east of Reims), were unsuccessful.

The enemy lost 14 aeroplanes.

A later German official message says: Contrary to to-day's report, Chevreuy remains in our hands.

GERMAN PROBLEMS.

Private telegrams from Berlin received in Amsterdam state that the German Chancellor will deliver on Tuesday, in the Reichstag, the speech dealing with peace matters which was expected last week.

Conservatives and Socialists both demand an answer to their questions regarding a policy of no annexation and no indemnity, which is what Austria-Hungary suggests.

The Socialist paper "Vorwaerts" tells the Chancellor that he stands at the parting of the ways. "Vorwaerts" publishes a telegram from the Hungarian newspaper "Pester Lloyd," stating that there is no difference between the war aims of the Central Powers, but the policy of extensive annexations, which a section of the German press is upholding, is contrary to the Austrian Foreign Minister's policy towards Russia.

The reactionary German newspapers are very alarmed at the action of the Constitution Committee of the Reichstag accepting proposals for making the Chancellor responsible to the Reichstag. The "Kreuze Zeitung" is indignant at the proposal to put the War Office and the Admiralty under the Reichstag's control, thus making a Parliamentary army and navy.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the Reichstag Constitution Committee has agreed that the Imperial Chancellor and the Ministers of War and Marine shall in future approve of the Emperor's military and naval nominations.

The American war correspondent, Mr. Cyril Brown, cabling from Copenhagen, says that the confiscation of all timber in Germany is imminent. Silver and nickel coins are to be demonetised to prevent hoarding. It is believed that a new diplomatic post may be found for Count von Bernstorff in Scandinavia.

TEN SHELLS TO ONE.

The correspondent of the "New York World" on the British front interviewed a Canadian officer, who said: We are pounding the German line with 9-inch guns at 3000 yards. We have shells to burn, and are firing ten to the Germans' one. The material has greatly improved, multiplying the life of the guns. Some fire 30,000 rounds, and do not lose accuracy.

STILL IN HINDENBURG LINE.

ANZACS AT BULLECOURT.

The correspondent of the "Morning Post" says: The enemy is trying hard to recover that portion of the Hindenburg line which the Australians took on Thursday morning. It has been the object of repeated counter-attacks, stronger and more determined than on any part of the battle front. Not discouraged by previous failures, the German staff attempted a new counter-attack on Saturday night, and another this morning, without making the slightest impression on the Dominion troops, who eventually held what they had taken. They also occupied a fresh bit of the Hindenburg position.

The Australian wedge east of Bullecourt is undoubtedly a dangerous salient for the Anzac infantry, who can be bombed on portions of it from the rear. The fighting is of a complicated character. Since we have not taken Bullecourt German strategists are puzzled to understand why the Australians insist on clinging to a position in mid-air.

The Australians have Huns to the right, Huns to the left, Huns behind, and Huns in front; but they stick in the deep trenches and concrete dugouts of the Hindenburg line—a new fortress which they hope to transform into a kind of jigsaw puzzle. While British troops further north were crossing the Sensee, the Australians, advancing along the Arras railway, swept into a doubly well-wired trench system east of Bullecourt and got both trenches by 5.30 on Thursday morning. Some detachments actually drove the enemy into the open country around Reincourt.

Bullecourt remained in the enemy's hands, and, although the Australians penetrated the village and captured a number of the occupants, they eventually had to fall back, leaving the Hindenburg trenches reluctantly. Some parties of infantry even remained for a time bombing the Germans on their own along the Reincourt-road. A great duel with bombs followed, and continued day and night, with occasional intervals of infantry attacks. The Germans, who fought well, brought up a Guards regiment, consisting of divisions of second reserves, and the third regular division, together with skilled bombthrowers, whom the Anzacs professionally regard as highly competent adversaries.

One deep dugout on the edge of Bullecourt disgorged a gang of bombers desiring to surrender. No sooner had they appeared than hand grenades were showered among them from an adjacent German trench. Many were blown to pieces. The Australians always gave better than they received. They found two trench mortars with a large supply of ammunition when they first occupied the Hindenburg line, and they promptly turned these against the enemy. "We knew something about Minnenwerfers," said one; "we had a number of Bosche weapons from time to time, and any old mankiller is good enough for us." The Australians made repeated sallies into the German dugouts during the constant up-and-down and in-and-out fighting.

Sometimes the Germans rushed into some corner of the Hindenburg trenches, with shouts of triumph. Perhaps they remained an hour or two, and then the Anzacs turned them out, pushed the corpses to one side, and passed the word for more bombs.

There is no well-defined front line, and one could not mark the Australians' position on the map. It is primitive fighting of the kind the Australians keenly relish. So far, every time the enemy came they have hit back with greater vigour. They have slowly, and almost imperceptibly, widened the captured front. Counter-attacks have failed to shift them. A tremendous effort was made to turn them out on Friday evening, when German infantry was hurled upon them from four points. All these attacks failed. During 24 hours an attempt was made to tire out the Australians, who rested only while supplies and reliefs came up, when bombing proceeded as usual.

The enemy, on Saturday night, arranged another group attack. The troops were evidently ordered to get back the lost trenches regardless of sacrifice, but they again failed. Early on Sunday morning they made a fresh attempt, but the artillery broke up that concentration before the advance began.

Correspondents at British headquarters say that the British line on the outskirts of Bullecourt follows three sides of the village. We are constantly bombing the village, and forcing the Germans continually to put in reinforcements. In the original attack the Australians had an extraordinary success. They got behind the second line of trenches in the Hindenburg system in the first hour. The Englishmen broke into Bullecourt village, which is also within the Hindenburg line. At one point the Englishmen were well beyond the north side of the village. It, however, was full of machine guns, and the Englishmen were unable to hold on. The Australians, on the right, east of Bullecourt, thus hold a salient in the German line, and both their flanks are unprotected.

While thus situated the Australians were subjected to four tremendous attacks from the villages of Reincourt, Bullecourt, and Queant, which they beat off with the help of their artillery, and they even improved their position by bombing eastward along the Hindenburg line.

The fighting is curiously chaotic. When the British rushed beyond the village of Bullecourt a number of Germans issued from the tunnels of the Hindenburg line, and endeavoured to turn machine guns upon the attackers. A German storming party on the flank, however, believed that they were British coming up in support and it greeted the men from the tunnels with a shower of stick bombs.

Here is another example of confusion. The onlookers on the high ground saw two lines of Germans moving west, while between them a company of British was moving east. All intended to attack, but a fold in the ground hid each from the other, though the British looked absurdly close to the German companies. Finally, the Germans were headed off by their own artillery, and forced to retreat. The British were saved by a young artillery officer, who quietly sat down with a map and compass and got the men out of an awkward predicament.

The Australians and British fought with wonderful spirit. They could scarcely be induced to retreat from over-advanced posts. The artillery displayed extraordinary skill. It even dropped local curtains of shell-fire just in front of small squads of bombers advancing at different speeds. The Australians are loud in their praise of the artillery.

M. Andre Tudesq, the Paris "Journal's" correspondent at the British Headquarters, refers to the Anzacs' mettle and the Canadians' magnificent tenacity, both having established the following law: "Wherever we have installed ourselves in trenches we do not give way an inch."

VALUE OF CRAONNE.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Paris correspondent says:—The fighting on the Aisne front was continued fiercely throughout Saturday night on the Sapigneul-Loivre sector, and towards Moronvilliers. German attempts to recover the ground they had lost failed with exceedingly heavy losses. The prisoners now number 6000. The Germans are still holding out around Fort Malmaison (north-east of Soissons)—the only part of the Aisne Heights in their possession.

The ground captured at Craonne is most important in the enemy's scheme of defence. The Germans therefore fought with the utmost determination and reckless expenditure of life. There have been local fluctuations in this dreadful struggle, but it is now clear the tide of victory is turning powerfully towards the French.

The Frenchmen have always been the better fighters. They go into battle with grim confidence. The headquarters staff is responsible for the soundness of conception and general direction of the offensive, which continually compels the enemy to withdraw his shattered divisions and bring up fresh ones from his rapidly disappearing reserve.

Craonne is one of the strongest positions on the western front. Its defenders included the Guards Division, who were sternly ordered to hold the front line at any cost. The loss of Craonne cliffs means the loss of incomparable observatory and artillery emplacements commanding many miles of French roads in the Aisne Valley and western Champagne. The Germans in Craonne fortress held out for a fortnight, in the face of a tremendous bombardment from a great crescent of hidden batteries. Finally a famous French corps attacked on Friday morning. They surrounded Craonne Village, and fought their way across Chemin-des-Dames, joining hands with the Frenchmen who had already established themselves at Hurtebise Farm. Many Prussian Guardsmen were taken prisoners. Simultaneously a great French attack was made nine miles away against a similar height between Sapigneul and Loivre, where the fighting continues.

CANADA MAY ADOPT CONSCRIPTION.

MONTREAL, May 6.

Recruiting throughout Canada is very unsatisfactory, and there are indications that on Sir Robert Borden's return from the Imperial Conference in London it is very likely that a Conscription Act will be passed. It will probably exempt men employed in agricultural and kindred industries.

The fact that compulsion was agreed to in the United States has heartened the conscriptionists in Canada.

THE CRISIS IN RUSSIA

CONTRADICTORY REPORTS.

ALARMING POSITION AT THE FRONT.

LONDON, May 7.

Messages from Petrograd say that the Provisional Government has published a further statement, explaining its Note to the Allies of May 1, promising to carry on the war to a victorious end, and not to make a separate peace, to which the Workmen's and Soldiers' Committee objected.

The statement points out that Russia must not emerge from this war humiliated, or with restrictions on her vital interests. In order to secure perpetual peace, an arbitration court for national disputes should be established, armies should be diminished, and institutions should be set up to protect the nations against the menace of Imperialism.

Representatives of the Duma went in an aeroplane to the Aland Islands, in the Gulf of Finland, to settle differences which had arisen between officers and soldiers.

General Alexieff (Chief of Staff) is visiting the capital. He had a good reception. He saw the beginning of the rioting. General Alexieff strongly protested against the propaganda in favour of no annexation and no indemnity; the army at the front would interpret it as an advocacy of surrender.

The "Daily Chronicle's" Petrograd correspondent says:—Friday was reminiscent of the great days of the revolution. Hundreds and thousands crowded Nevsky Prospect and other main thoroughfares. Lorries crammed with soldiers rushed hither and thither endlessly. A thousand demonstrators marched up and down the streets with placards and banners expressing every shade of opinion from "War Till Complete Victory" to "Peace at Any Price," from "Long Live the Provisional Government" to "Long Live Anarchy."

During the day a great change occurred. The demonstrators in the morning seemed evenly divided, the intelligent classes being for the Government, and the workers against the Government. Towards evening the supporters of the Government increased in numbers. Late in the evening, after a collision occurred, the anti-Government demonstrators hardly showed themselves in Nevsky Prospect.

The crisis passed, and the Government remained in power. This has been due mainly to the statesmanlike bearing of the leaders of the crowds. They saved the situation. If the leaders in the presence of the masses of workmen had been openly hostile to the Government, or had been carried away by a desire for power, it would have meant the overthrow of the Government. There is not the slightest doubt civil war and anarchy would have resulted. The danger was greater than at any time during the revolution, when the formed Government had no supporters among the people; but now there are two parties, neither of whom would have submitted to the other if an agreement had not been reached. The soldiers' demonstration on Thursday has been proved to have been the result of provocation. The council of the workers and soldiers has officially declared that the demonstration occurred without their knowledge.

A combination composed of German spies, underhand agents of the old regime, Leninites, and pacificists, has been carrying on for the past few weeks a dangerous agitation in barracks and workshops. The movement met with some success in the factories, but on Friday practically all the soldiers were for the Government. A joint conference between the Provisional Government, the workers and soldiers' committee, and the temporary Duma Committee met on Thursday and sat all night. It was evident from the outset that both sides were anxious for an agreement. Members of the Government presented a detailed account of the situation without attempting to conceal its seriousness. Prince Lvoff, the Premier, expressed his readiness to resign in favour of anyone who felt himself to be more strongly supported. M. Gutchkoff (Minister for War) candidly disclosed the conditions at the front, and stated that affairs there were serious.

M. Gutchkoff said the present condition of the army gave ground for great anxiety. Immediate measures were necessary to restore discipline and raise the spirits of the troops. He emphasised the opinion that the position was by no means hopeless, but a continuance of existing conditions might have fatal results. He said it was popularly thought that peace could be achieved simply by laying down arms, and insisted that the enthusiasm and confidences created by such talk were the causes of the disorganisation and depression amongst the soldiers. M. Gutchkoff concluded by saying he was not striving for army conquests. He believed that ideas of annexation would not attract anyone at the present time.

TO BEAT U-BOATS.

AMERICANS AT WORK.

NEW YORK, May 6.

Mr. Addicks, chairman of the Naval Problems Committee, says:—We are trying naval devices of great promise. He added: Mr. Edison is undertaking important experiments, and is working stretches of 50 hours without sleep. Mr. Daniels (Secretary to the Navy) believes that a way to combat submarines will be found.

The newest American battleships are equipped with remarkable armour. It is said that it will require three torpedoes to sink one of these battleships. One American inventor claims to have discovered an impenetrable armour.

AMERICA AND WAR.

NEW YORK, May 7.

Admiral Sims, on behalf of the United States, attended the conference of the Allies at Paris last week.

More than 200,000 men, including officers, have offered to enlist if the Government authorises a voluntary division for France, under the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt.

GENERAL WAR CABLES.

LONDON, May 6.

Lord Charles Beresford, in the course of a speech, said there was no doubt we were going to beat Germany, but we must expect great sacrifices between July and October. He deprecated criticism of the Admiralty. Sir Edward Carson had the country's complete confidence. He blamed those whose freak building policy had cost millions, and placed us in the present position.

A Rome message states that the Pope, in a letter to Cardinal Gasparri, hopes that peace is not far distant, and has given orders to bishops throughout the world to introduce a new peace prayer into the Litany.

Food riots occurred in Stockholm on Saturday night, and the police charged the crowds. The disorder lasted five hours.

DANISH ECONOMY.

The Danish Government is conserving oil supplies for the use of industries, and has decreed that oil can no longer be used for lighting private houses.

WAR NOTES.

PROGRESS IN THE WEST.

The position on the Western front continues to develop in a manner which leaves little room for dissatisfaction. Progress at certain vital points is certainly slow, but it is sure, and in practically every case the ground taken has been held, with the exception of one or two instances where no opportunity has been given to consolidate the new positions. What the Paris "Journal's" correspondent says of the Australians and Canadians is equally true of the British. Wherever they have properly installed themselves in trenches they have not given way an inch, in spite of the repeated violent counter-attacks which the enemy has delivered. That the Australians and Canadians have achieved more visible gains at either flank of the front recently attacked than the British have at the centre is clear, as, while the Canadians took Fresnoy on the left flank, the Australians on the right penetrated the Hindenburg line. Although the map shows no similar gain along the British front between these points, we know that many strong enemy trenches and defensive positions have been taken, and that the pressure upon the enemy's front has been increased, and his reserve power taxed to a considerable extent. The consolidated ground has been held in every instance, and the enemy's desperate effort to break the British offensive power has failed signally. The French away to the south followed up the British effort with their two important blows delivered during the week-end. One of these has weakened the new enemy line at what may prove a very dangerous point for the defenders. The other penetrated original defences at one of the most important natural strongholds along the enemy's front. Picked German troops had been left in these positions, we are told, with instructions to hold them at all costs, and, as the French have already counted over 6000 prisoners, we may rest assured that, in this case, the enemy did not attempt to spare the lives of his troops at the expense of positions and material. The French also have proved that they can hold the ground taken, and, although the enemy has counter-attacked all along their new positions northward of the Aisne, they are able to announce that they have entirely maintained their gains.

IMPORTANCE OF CRAONNE.

The detailed accounts which have been received from correspondents of the French gains on Friday and Saturday last pay special attention to the strength of the positions taken by the French, and especially of those around Craonne. The representative of the "Daily Chronicle" describes the country around Craonne as an "incomparable observatory." The big plateau below Laon, which has frequently been referred to since the enemy commenced to withdraw towards his present lines, is broken up by ravines and gullies. The section which the French have just taken is the south-easterly corner of the main plateau, and is a small plateau in itself. It is bounded on the north by the valley of the Allette, and on the south by the valley of the Aisne. On the east its wooded slopes fall abruptly towards the comparatively level country of the Western Champagne. On the northern side the edge of the plateau, overlooking the Allette, is more or less straight, but, like the whole of the high ground in this region, the southern portion overlooking the valley of the Aisne is broken up into big spurs and gullies. This south-eastern section of the main plateau is about six miles wide from east to west, and less than five miles deep from north to south. The summit, which carries the Chemin-des-Dames, or Ladies' Road, is not very wide, the ravines between the spurs running some miles to the northward of the Aisne. Craonne stands at the extreme north-eastern corner of this high ground, immediately below the Allette, and is situated on the higher slopes overlooking the level country to the eastward, across which pass many roads and several railways, which supply the German front to the northward and eastward of Reims.

UNUSUAL POSITION AT CHEVREUX.

At the foot of the slopes on which Craonne stands, and less than half-a-mile to the north-east, is the village of Chevreux, which figures in the German communique published this morning. The reference to this village is somewhat unique in its way, as we rarely hear of the enemy admitting the loss of a certain point, and then issuing a special message denying his own earlier announcement. This is what has happened in the case of the village of Chevreux. It certainly suggests that when the enemy lost the high ground around Craonne he decided to evacuate Chevreux, which would be directly dominated by the French at Craonne. The French did not push down the slopes to this low-lying village, apparently on account of the danger of coming under the fire of the enemy's guns posted on the heights to the northward of the Allette. It is possible also that the French ignored Chevreux because the attackers were mainly concerned with the capture of Craonne itself, and of the remainder of the plateau to the westward. The statement in the "Daily Chronicle" message that the troops who captured Craonne afterwards joined hands with their countrymen at Hurtebise farm, shows that the tendency was to make sure of the important high ground to the westward rather than to attempt to push down the northern or north-eastern slopes towards the lower ground. Hurtebise farm is situated on the very top of the plateau, and on the northern side of the Ladies' road, about two miles west slightly south of Craonne. It has been the centre of some of the fiercest fighting in which the French in this region have recently engaged. The capture of ground at this point was much more important than the taking of Chevreux, which will be a costly point to hold now that the French completely overlook it.

RUSSIA'S UNCERTAIN ATTITUDE.

The present position in Russia does not inspire one with feelings of confidence regarding the prospects of a big Russian offensive on the Eastern front in co-operation with the British and French attacks in the West. The revolution has certainly not had the effect of strengthening Russia's sword-arm, as we have been able to perceive lately from the comparatively few references to fighting at points on the long Eastern line between the Gulf of Riga and the Black Sea. Last year Russia was practically the first of the Allied nations to take the offensive. It is true that General Brusiloff did not launch his attack until June, but the British, French, and Italians were later still. The statement by the Russian Minister for War, M. Gutchkoff, regarding the present condition of the Russian armies at the front, is far from reassuring, and there can be little doubt that, even if it does not suit the enemy's book to strike a formidable blow at disorganised Russia, he is at least able to direct his main efforts towards checking the British and French attacks in the West without having to worry about meeting a serious move on the part of the Russians in the East. If this inactivity of the Russians continues, the enemy's object in seeking a separate peace will have been practically achieved. One phase of the question concerning which very little seems to have been said, is the hopeless position in which this internal uncertainty in Russia leaves poor unfortunate Roumania. We do not accept unreservedly the statements recently published regarding Russian treachery towards Roumania in the past, but it will be difficult for her to deny the imputation if she continues to refuse that assistance upon which her weaker ally relies so much. It would be amusing, if it were not so tragic, to hear these new leaders of Russian democracy decrying any suggestion of annexation, especially when it is remembered that, outside of Galicia, Russia cannot make any advance, between the Gulf of Riga and the Black Sea, which does not restore to her her own or her ally's territory. M. Gutchkoff says, however, that the position is not hopeless. We should, therefore, await with as much patience as possible the straightening out of Russia's private affairs in the hope that before long she will be in a position to co-operate with her Western Allies by adding pressure to the enemy's line in the East, and not the least welcome development would be an offensive along the Sereth, when a simultaneous Italian advance on Trieste would no doubt be also witnessed.

LATE WAR NEWS.

LONDON BOMBED.

LONDON, May 7.

The Press Bureau announces that early this morning a hostile aeroplane dropped four bombs on the outskirts north-east of London. One man was killed and a man and a woman were injured. Slight damage was done to some buildings.

BRITISH FRONT.

Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, reporting at noon on Monday, says:—

We improved our position in the course of sharp fighting this morning on the Hindenburg line eastward of Bullecourt.

We progressed westward in the direction of the village, taking prisoners.

RUSSIA AND GERMANY.

General Alexieff (Chief of the Russian General Staff), in the course of a public announcement, said that there would be big fighting on the Russian front in the near future. Russia's great and only trouble was Petrograd. He felt sure that he could rely on the sober, good sense of the whole nation.

The German paper "Cologne Gazette," commenting on the Russian situation, insists that many sections of the Russian front remain in the deepest state of calm. There are artillery fights at other points, and occasionally isolated infantry attacks on narrow fronts. This chaos reflects the internal condition of Russia. An offensive like that of General Brusiloff's in 1916 is now impossible. The probable explanation of the artillery activity is that some of the Russian commanders desire to cut off their men from intercourse with the Austrians and Germans.

BOLIVIA BREAKS OFF RELATIONS.

The South American Republic of Bolivia has broken off relations with Germany.

DUTCH FISHING INDUSTRY.

According to a Rotterdam telegram the Dutch fishing industry is practically at a standstill, due to the laying up at Ymuiden of the steam trawler fleet, owing to the Germans torpedoing the vessels, even when in the so-called safe zones. The Germans in other cases seized the catches. The stoppage of the fishing will have some detrimental effect on England, which received an agreed proportion of the fish caught.

LORD CHELMSFORD'S SON.

Frederic Thesiger, the heir of Lord Chelmsford, Viceroy of India, died in Mesopotamia from wounds received on March 3. He was previously wounded in 1916.

OPENING OF TERM.

The second term of the Supreme Court commenced yesterday, the Chief Justice and other Judges, who sat in Banco, appearing in their ceremonial gowns and wigs until the formal business was concluded. The "Inner Bar" was represented by Mr. John Garland, K.C. (Solicitor-General), Mr. A. G. Ralston, K.C., Mr. S. Ernest Lamb, K.C., and Mr. E. J. Loxton, K.C. Among other learned gentlemen were Messrs. Hanbury Davies, W. H. Mocatta, G. H. Pike, E. J. Bayly Macarthur, A. Thomson, F. L. V. Coffey, F. S. Boyce, H. H. Bignold, John M. Sanders, Norman G. Pilcher, H. C. Edwards, and L. J. McKean. Messrs. C. R. Walsh (Prothonotary), Mr. W. W. Crockford (Acting Sheriff), and Mr. H. D. Wood were also present.

DEATH OF LADY HOLROYD.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Lady A. M. H. Holroyd, widow of Sir Edward Dundas Holroyd, formerly senior Puisne Judge of the Supreme Court of Victoria, died at the home of her son-in-law, at St. Kilda, yesterday, at the age of 85 years.

NATIONALIST LEAD INCREASING.

Later figures made available during yesterday and last night show that the already substantial advantage by the National party obtained in the earlier results given yesterday has been still further accentuated. Even in Queensland it is now apparent that the Nationalists have polled very heavily, and, whilst the final results may give to the P.L.L. the preponderance of representation in that State, it will be secured by comparatively narrow majorities.

So far as New South Wales is concerned, the issue is beyond all doubt in the Senate. In several seats in the House of Representatives also where the earlier results indicated a probable P.L.L. victory there is now good reason to believe that the National candidates will win in the end. In the Hume, for instance, Mr. Falkiner is still ahead, and, whilst the margin is small, it is thought that the results still to come are those of the outlying farming centres, where, it is thought, the National cause is sure to get solid support. In Calare Mr. Piggott still leads his P.L.L. opponent, and there is every prospect that he will maintain his lead. When Mr. Piggott won this seat from Mr. T. Brown in 1914 it was noted that practically all the late results gave him good majorities. There would appear to be little prospect of Mr. Spence overtaking his P.L.L. opponent, Mr. Blakeley, although there must be still a great many votes to be accounted for. Similarly in Macquarie, where Mr. E. S. Carr is a considerable distance behind Mr. Nicholls, the P.L.L. nominee, there must still be a chance of his making up the necessary leeway. In the fight for the Gwydir, where the Postmaster-General, Mr. Webster, has been running almost neck-and-neck with his P.L.L. opponent, Mr. Last, the latest figures to hand indicate a distinct prospect of the seat being retained for the National Government. The only other very close contest in this State is that for Werriwa, where Mr. Lynch (National) and Mr. Christopher (P.L.L.) are fighting it out. At a late hour last night Mr. Lynch had a comfortable lead of nearly 700 votes, and the same remark about the outlying farmers' votes being likely to prove solid for the Nationalist candidate applies.

The remarkable majorities obtained by the National candidates for the Senate in this State are worthy of special mention. Last night they were in the region of 50,000 ahead. When it is remembered that at the last election there were less than 6000 votes separating the successful and unsuccessful candidates, the great merit of a win of this description becomes apparent. A 50,000 majority in a poll of 300,000 is probably one of the most pronounced demonstrations of public feeling ever recorded in Australia.

In all the other States later figures show that the National Senate candidates have polled remarkably well. Especially is this the case in Queensland, where at a late hour last night the three National men were leading by about 5400 votes.

A point that seems to have been overlooked in connection with the polling in those seats which were won by members of the old Labour party in 1914 is that a win for the P.L.L. cannot be considered a victory. On the contrary, it should be borne in mind that where the National candidates, who were erstwhile Labour men, have secured a majority, they have turned a minority into a majority. Nothing demonstrates the seriousness of the split in the Labour party more than this, and it must be taken into consideration when any computation of the party gains and losses is attempted.

On the figures as they stand now, the state of parties in the new Parliament looks like 48 to 27 in the House of Representatives, and 21 to 15 in the Senate in favour of the National Government.

It is worthy of note that in two of the seats where the National party candidates are having very close contests there is a strong German vote. In this State, Mr. Faulkner has to contend against this influence in the Hume electorate, while in South Australia the Minister for Home Affairs and Territories, Mr. Glynn, has also to fight an electorate (Angas) where there is a substantial colony of naturalised German voters.

Quite apart from New South Wales, the latest Queensland figures indicate, perhaps even more strikingly, that the effort made by the P.L.L. to make conscription the one issue of the campaign has failed badly.

In connection with the tabulation and the issue of the results of the polling, on which so much public interest has been concentrated, it should be stated that the arrangements made by the Chief Electoral Officer for New South Wales, Mr. J. G. M'Laren, B.A., were excellent. In addition to the results of the polling in this State, reliance has been placed upon Mr. M'Laren for the figures from all over the Commonwealth. With the assistance of a trained staff, he has been able, because of the efficiency of his own arrangements, to issue carefully tabulated results of the polling at regular intervals. Moreover, the work, which is of a particularly trying nature, has been done with the maximum of courtesy and an invariable willingness to assist in the unravelling of the many knotty problems which arise in the preparation of such a volume of figures as is inevitable in the compilation of election results covering the whole of Australia.

THOS. CROUCH, 38 Hunter-street, Sydney.

MR. HUGHES GRATIFIED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The later figures were very gratifying to the Prime Minister.

Mr. Hughes, commenting upon them tonight, stated that each additional return improved the position of the National party. The recovery of the National Senate candidates in Queensland was particularly pleasing to him. The Ministry was assured of a comfortable working majority in both the House of Representatives and the Senate, and this would enable it to devote itself to problems of the country without worry as to political exigencies.

Interviewed later in the evening, the Prime Minister said:—"It now appears quite certain that we will sweep the Senate in every State, as every additional return improves the position of the National candidates. I deeply regret that it seems extremely likely from the latest figures that Mr. Spence will be defeated. I regard Mr. Spence's defeat as a lasting reproach to all organised Labour, and particularly to the A.W.U. members for whom he has devoted his life, but I feel certain that, although he may be defeated in this contest, his reputation will shine with still greater lustre than it has ever done in the eyes of every honourable man and woman throughout the Commonwealth, whether Labour or Liberal. I am confident, too, that if he is defeated this time before very long he will again be triumphantly returned by the electors to represent them in the National Parliament."

Asked how he viewed Mr. Bamford's position, Mr. Hughes said that, although the figures were adverse at present, he expected that later results would improve the outlook. He had every confidence that Mr. Bamford would be returned. Of Mr. Glynn's chance the Prime Minister did not despair. "I think, now that his position is improving with every return, that the absent and soldiers' votes will pull him through," was Mr. Hughes's comment.

MR. COOK INTERVIEWED.

Mr. Joseph Cook, Minister for the Navy, when interviewed expressed gratification at the results which were to hand.

"It looks at the moment," said Mr. Cook, "as if we should hold most of our seats in this State, and gain one or two new ones. I am very glad Mr. Lamond has won the Illawarra seat. I am equally glad to see Mr. Thomas as successful in the Senate bunch. It proves that at bottom the instincts of justice and fairplay are still strong in the hearts of Australia. These men greatly dared, greatly sacrificed for their country, and the country rewards their patriotism and their sacrifice.

"The results to hand from the other States are gratifying in every way. It looks as though the nation has risen grandly to its duty. We must never forget that in this contest the nation has been on its trial before the bar of history. It has rung true to its traditions. The Senate insisted on this trial. It looks at the moment as though it has had its answer complete and emphatic. We decided for the war, for the big things, for the Imperial things, and put the smaller things aside. I have all through insisted that there was only one issue. Those who were all out for the country, and those who were indifferent, careless, and callous to the higher calls of the nation and the world.

"The way is now clear to get to work with both hands earnestly to win the war, to reinforce the boys at the front; to get to work on the problem of organising the nation. This decision means that the past programmes must await a more convenient season; that the great world-changes must be confronted, and until these have been dealt with the nation must not be further distracted or divided."

P.L.L. OPINION.

The leaders of the P.L.L. and industrial sections of the Labour party are intensely surprised at the result of the elections. Senator Gardiner quoted the constituencies of West Sydney, Cook, East Sydney, and South Sydney, whose poll for Labour, he declared, was an indication that the rank and file were still true, whilst in Calare and Hume they had an excellent chance of winning. Whilst his party had so far lost two men in the Senate and one in the Representatives, they expected to balance this by winning other seats. "I regret," he added, "the loss of such a fine Labourite as Mr. Burns, who has been defeated by Mr. Lamond for Illawarra. He is a distinct loss to the party, as well as to the people he represented."

Mr. J. Doyle, M.L.A., president of the Labour Council, said, whilst he was surprised at the result, rightly or wrongly the people had chosen to place their trust in the National Government. "I can only hope," he added, "that Mr. Hughes will carry out his pledge to observe the just claims of the Labour platform; that he will refrain from attempting to reintroduce the conscription issue, unless forced to do so by the Allies' suffering a great reverse. If," said Mr. Doyle, "it should prove that the workers have been misled by assurances, half truths, and concealment of the Nationals' party's real aims; and if the next few years should place on record a system of oppression of the workers as the result of that accession to power, we Labour leaders will have the consolation of knowing that we left nothing undone to warn the electors against this contingency, and they will only have themselves to blame if such should happen."

Mr. E. J. Kavanagh, secretary of the Labour Council, referring to the success of the Nationalists, said:—"As far as the industrial movement is concerned, we shall go on opposing any attempt to impose conscription, and with that end in view a meeting of the Federal Anti-Conscription Council will be called at an early date." Mr. Kavanagh professed pessimism as the result of the elections, which he thought would prove to be detrimental to the workers, though he expected that it would help to concentrate their minds upon the industrial organisation. The Labour Council, he declared, would not take the defeat lying down; on the contrary, steps would be taken immediately to rehabilitate the forces of labour, and await with confidence the demands of the future."

SATISFACTION IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, May 6.

There is the greatest satisfaction in Canada with the result of the Federal election in Australia.

"LOYALTY TO EMPIRE."

The Acting Premier (Mr. Fuller) stated yesterday that the result of the Federal elections proved conclusively that the verdict of the people on March 24 was not a spasmodic political change, but the earnest realisation by the people of the fact that their liberties were in danger from the reactionaries at present associated with the P.L.L. movement. "Loyalty to the Empire and loyalty to Australian democracy, which go hand in hand," he went on, "have won magnificent triumphs both in the State and National Parliaments. The self-sacrificing patriotism of the leaders of the old political parties has been appreciated. The electors have shown emphatically that they will not tolerate any suggestion that 'Australia has done enough.' The Nationalists went to the country on two main issues—one that every effort must be continued till final and complete victory is assured; the other, that the people should retain control of their Parliamentary representatives, and not allow the domination of members by an irresponsible coterie of selfish class dictators.

"I am particularly pleased that the electors of Illawarra have returned the Nationalist candidate, and I congratulate Mr. Lamond on his splendid victory. One cannot help a feeling of regret and resentment that the grand old man of trades-unionism, Mr. W. G. Spence, has been treated in the same thankless way that Mr. M'Gowen was treated. There can be no gratitude, among followers of the P.L.L., when they turn down such men as Mr. Spence and Mr. M'Gowen because they placed their country before class. I am sorry, too, to find Mr Carr running second. When I was in Orange last Friday I realised that the conscription issue was more alive in Macquarie than anywhere else. Even yet I hope the absent votes may secure his return. He is a man we can ill afford to lose from politics.

"Finally, it is a matter upon which Australia can be congratulated that five out of the six States have all returned Nationalist Senators; and as the Queensland three are rapidly gaining ground, it is not too much to hope that throughout the whole of Australia a blow has been struck against disloyalty, against war apathy, and against class domination that will put Australia back in her rightful position in the estimation of the world."

BUSINESS MEN'S VIEWS.

Referring yesterday to the election results, Mr. Wm. Brooks, president of the Employers' Federation, and one of the newly-appointed members of the Legislative Council, said:—"To say that the results are good is a very feeble expression of the gratification that must be felt by all those citizens of the Commonwealth who desire to see Australia taking not only a patriotic, but also a dignified position in this period of national and Empire crisis. The results generally show that the heart of Australia is sound. The crux of the political position is, of course, the Senate, and it is delightful to see, according to present figures, that the Australian public are determined that a genuine win-the-war and sound government party shall have a majority both in the House of Representatives and the Senate. The pity is that the people of the Commonwealth were not able to express their opinions through the ballot box at an earlier period, so that Australia might have been represented at the great Imperial Conference recently held in London—a conference which will live in history as marking a development in the conduct of Imperial affairs, in which all the Dominions have a voice. I have every confidence that the National Government will face the problems of the future, as affecting not only the conduct of the war, but also these grave questions that will confront us when the war is over, in a manner that will ensure the realisation of those ideals of sound and equitable government which constitute the only foundation upon which we can hope to secure the prosperity and happiness of this generation as well as future generations of Australians."

Mr. W. T. Willington, president of the Chamber of Manufactures, says that one of the vital tendencies of the election will be to strengthen the commercial position by giving it greater security.

Mr. A. A. C. Cocks, M.L.A., president of the Chamber of Commerce, said: "The results are of a character such as to re-establish public confidence, and to afford some indication that Australia will be in the hands of men who are likely to have a due regard for the obligations that are upon us as a nation, in response to our many privileges and advantages under the protection of Great Britain. So far as the Senate is concerned, the results appear to reflect the feeling of the people that this is no time for politicians who are taking a small and circumscribed view of their responsibilities. The results generally indicate that the people are determined to take a stand that is worthy of Australia in this conflict of barbarity against civilisation."

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The additional returns received to-day for the House of Representatives made no alteration in the state of parties. A start was made to-day with the absentee votes, which are roughly estimated at 200,000 for the whole of Australia. Victoria's proportion is stated to be about 60,000. No results of the soldiers' votes have yet been received, but when these come to hand they will be treated as absentees and distributed in the various constituencies. It will be some time before the final result is cabled from London.

The latest figures for the Senate only served to increase majorities of the Ministerial candidates.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, Monday.

The three Nationalist candidates for the Senate are now leading by roughly 5400 votes. The position as far as the candidates for the House of Representatives is concerned is unaltered. Mr. Corser, for Wide Bay, who is now about 500 votes to the bad, has a good fighting chance, as a large number of votes from the agricultural districts are yet to come in, and these are expected to be in his favour. The Moreton seat, however, is lost to the Nationalists, and Mr. Bamford's chances for Herbert are not very encouraging.

TASMANIA.

HOBART, Monday.

The figures indicate a win of the National candidates all over the State, and probably the downfall of Mr. King O'Malley. The supporters of Mr. O'Malley believed that he would obtain a substantial majority, but his opponent, Mr. Howroyd, who was a member of the House of Assembly, is now over 2500 ahead. All the mining centres have sent in their returns, and 12,000 votes out of 19,000 on the roll have been counted. The opinion is general, even among Labour supporters, that Mr. O'Malley cannot succeed.

The contest in Denison, which embraces Hobart and suburbs, was of special interest to electors, the retiring member, Mr. Laird Smith, having a strong opponent in Mr. Ben Watkins, manager of the "Daily Post," the Labour paper. The returns, which are complete except for 2000 absent votes, and also the soldiers' vote, gave Mr. Smith a majority of 1340; while Mr. Watkins, in a speech last night, admitted that he had been defeated. In the Bass division Mr. Jenson is well in the lead by more than 2000 votes, and is certain of victory. The same may be said of Mr. Atkinson, who is opposed by three candidates in the Wilmot division, the nearest of whom is Mr. Sheedy (P.L.L.), who is, however, 2000 behind, and has no chance of picking up.

The Senate votes already counted number 54,000, out of 108,000 on the rolls; but it is not likely that more than 80,000 have been recorded, so that about 27,000 remain uncounted. The three Nationalists are expected to win. Each has between a 6000 and 7000 majority over the three P.L.L. nominees. Mr. John Earle tops the poll with 30,518.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

ADELAIDE, Monday.

In South Australia to-day the chief interest in the continuation of the scrutiny centred in the progressive returns from the Angas division of the House of Representatives, where the Opposition candidate, Mr. O'Flaherty, had, at the cessation of the counting on Sunday, a lead of 548 over Mr. Glynn. It was then believed that Mr. Glynn's chances were not very good, but to-day Mr. Glynn gained on his opponent, and there is now just a possibility that the Minister may win. Should Mr. Glynn be successful, and the other candidates maintain their present positions, the result of the elections in South Australia will be a sweeping defeat for the Opposition party. In the divisions of Barker, Grey, and Wakefield the scrutiny of the ordinary votes was continued, and in Boothby and Hindmarsh the absent votes were reviewed. In each case the balance swung further in favour of the Nationalists. Mr. Foster is perfectly safe for Wakefield.

For the Senate, the win-the-war nominees are widening the gap between themselves and their opponents.

CITY COUNCIL.

FLINDERS-ST. RESUMPTION.

There was a long discussion in the City Council last night on the minute of the Lord Mayor, urging that the demolition of property in connection with the widening scheme for Flinders-street be proceeded with as far as the Albion-street extension, including the demolition of the property affecting the Flinders Hotel and also that affecting St. Michael's Church.

The works committee recommended that the demolition of the properties should be allowed to stand over until after the war.

Alderman Davoren formally moved the adoption of the recommendation of the works committee.

Alderman M'Elhone moved as an amendment,—"That the work be proceeded with."

Alderman Lindsay Thompson moved as an amendment:—"That prior to pulling down any buildings a subdivision plan be prepared showing the new building line, and that the sites be offered to auction on such conditions as are approved by this council."

The voting on Alderman M'Elhone's amendment was: Ayes 11, noes 10.

Alderman Thompson's amendment was then put, the division being: Ayes 13, noes 10.

It was agreed,—"That approval be given for the inclusion of the area fronting Flinders-street on the western side, between Darling-street and Moore Park-road, as an addition to the Flinders-street widening scheme, and a projection at the north-eastern corner of Anzac-parade (late Randwick-road) and Moore Park-road, as an addition to the Anzac-parade widening scheme, and that application be made to the Governor-in-Council for authority to resume such areas.

It was decided to appoint Mr. J. W. Cooper, of the Alexandra Gardens, Melbourne, as landscape gardener.

OFFICERS COURT-MARTIALLED

The following officers of the Australian Imperial Forces have been tried by General Courts-martial and sentenced:—Captain A. R. Dignan, 2nd Battalion, at Antac, dismissed the service for drunkenness; Captain F. M. Ross, 20th Battalion, in France, dismissed the service for drunkenness; Lieutenant H. E. Shaw, 17th Battalion, at Erquingham, rank and precedence to take effect as if commission dated from April 1, 1916, for neglect to the prejudice of good order and military discipline; Lieutenant J. Stewart, 1st L.H. Regiment, in Egypt, to be dismissed from the service for drunkenness; Second-lieutenant G. D. Lemon, 3rd Battalion, at Guildhall, Westminster, to be dismissed the service for (1) disobeying a lawful command given by a superior officer, and (2) drunkenness; Second-lieutenant H. P. M'Meekin, 19th Battalion, at Erquingham, rank and precedence to take effect as if commission dated from April 28, 1916, for neglect to the prejudice of good order and military discipline; Second-lieutenant T. Suttie, 5th Australian Tunnelling Company, in France, to be dismissed the service for drunkenness; and Second-lieutenant A. G. Odgers, 47th Battalion, in England, to be dismissed the service for drunkenness.

No. 649, Trooper J. E. Willis, 7th Light Horse, was tried at Hassaniya, and sentenced to nine months' hard labour on charges of (1), when on active service being drunk, and (2) when in lawful custody attempting to escape. Three months of the sentence were remitted by the confirming authority.

SOLDIERS HONOURED.

The Military Medal has been awarded to Private Richard Barrett. He left Sydney on May 12, 1915, and went through the Gallipoli campaign, afterwards proceeding to France. He was wounded at Pozieres, and subsequently returned to duty. He was formerly engaged at Resch's Brewery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, of Burnbrae, View-street, Annandale, have been informed that their son, Sapper W. D. A. Miller, has recently been mentioned in despatches for conspicuous distinguished services during the period of General A. J. Murray's command of the Egyptian Expeditionary Force. Previous to this Sapper Miller was decorated by the King of Servia. His brother Jack is serving in Mesopotamia.

KALGOORLIE, Monday.

Mr. George Mayman, of Kalgoorlie, has received a letter from his brother, Private John Mayman, stating that he had been serving with General Botha's forces in German East Africa, and has won the Victoria Cross. Private Mayman, who is 47 years of age, was well known on the goldfields, where he was shift boss on several mines. While working at various mines he saved life on several occasions at great personal risk.

RAILWAY CLASSIFICATION.

The award under which over 4000 railway salaried officers worked expired last week.

On account of the decision of Judge Heydon limiting wages boards to consideration of employees receiving less than £225 per annum, a great portion of these railway officers cannot lodge fresh claims until Mr. Beeby's new scheme operates. For those officers in the lower classes the Railway Officers' Association has lodged claims with the Court. Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick, M.L.A. (State Treasurer), is actively interesting himself on behalf of the railway officers, and has approached the Chief Commissioner. The Chief Commissioner has now approved of the following classification for inspectors and foremen:—

Mechanical: Chief inspectors, £425 to £500; inspectors, £335 to £410; sub-inspectors and sub-foremen, £245 to £320. This will apply to all steam shed, locomotive, mechanical, and permanent way inspectors, foremen, and sub-foremen.

The following classification will come into force for all traffic, goods managers, audit, refreshment-rooms, tramways, travelling inspectors, and sub-inspectors:—Chief, £450 to £500; senior, £390 to £440; first-class, £335 to £380; second-class, £270 to £320; sub-inspectors, £210 to £260.

FORTUNE TELLING.

The Inspector-General of Police, Mr. James Mitchell, said yesterday that from instances that had come under the notice of the police in the metropolitan district it was evident that a large number of persons deliberately imposed upon the wives and mothers of soldiers who were on active service. Every police station in the State had been instructed to take firm measures against fortune tellers.

PLAGUE OF MICE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A new phase of the mouse plague is now causing great inconvenience. In some districts where sowing has begun the mice have turned their attention to the seed, and as a result of their depredations further sowing operations have had to be discontinued.

EMPLOYMENT FOR RETURNED MEN.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

At a meeting of the education committee of the State War Council on Saturday, it was decided to recommend that about 50 returned soldiers should be selected for training in the work of wool-classing. It is proposed that after a month or six weeks' training the men should be sent to wool sheds, where they would be employed at a wage of 55s a week and their keep.

WAR CASUALTIES.

KILLED.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, 119 Kippax-street, Surry Hills, have been notified that their eldest son, Pte. C. J. Patterson, was killed in action in France on April 6. He served for two years, and was 22 years of age.

Private Horace Victor Roberts, son of Mr. R. H. Roberts, of Windellama, in the Goulburn district, was killed in France on April 21. He was 20 years of age.

Private F. B. Reynolds, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reynolds, of Lake Bathurst, has been killed in France. He was 32 years of age.

Private James Power, of Goulburn, was killed in France on April 24. He was a son of Mrs. Power, of Eastgrove, Goulburn, and was 32 years of age. He leaves a widow and one child.

Private George Giddy, second son of Mr. E. Giddy, of Kempsey, has been killed in action. Deceased was a resident of Penrith.

Colonel Durrant, writing to Mrs. J. F. Makinson, Neutral Bay, in regard to her son, Private Frank Makinson, who was reported to be killed in action, says:—"This lad was thought a very great deal of by his officers and comrades. He was last seen at 11.30 p.m. on August 29, 1916, in a charge close to the German trenches near Mouquet Farm. It distresses me to have to write such sad news, but it is part of the price we are paying." Private Makinson was several times offered promotion during two years' continuous service, but refused, preferring to serve in the ranks. His diary of the Gallipoli campaign appeared in the first Anzac Day number of the "Sydney Mail."

Mr. Alfred B. Campbell, of Eastwood, and 219 Clarence-street, city, has been informed that his third son, Lance-corporal Allan Begbie Campbell, of the Light Horse, was killed in action on April 19, in Palestine. He was 28 years of age, and saw service at Gallipoli, and in the battle of Romani. Both he and his brother, Herbert, who was recently wounded, and is now in the Australian Field Ambulance in France, were students at the Wagga Experiment Farm, and went to Queensland to engage in agricultural pursuits. Mr. Harold Begbie, the well-known author, is a cousin.

DIED OF WOUNDS.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Wood, of Dione, Kent-street, Newtown, have been advised that their youngest son, Albert, died on March 9, of wounds received in France. He was 22 years of age, and left Sydney as company sergeant-major with reinforcements. His brother, Harold, left in the same reinforcements, and is at present in a London hospital suffering from gunshot wounds in the hand. Both were pupils of Fort-street School.

WOUNDED.

Major Alan H. Wright, son of Mr. Stewart Wright, Senr., Inspector of Schools, Wollongong, has been wounded in France. He was previously wounded in July last year at Pozieres.

Gunner E. J. Woolnough, of Mitchell-street, Arncliffe, has been wounded. He only returned to the front last month, after having been wounded severely.

Mr. William M'Intyre, of Penrith, has been informed that his son, Private Hilton M'Intyre who is 19 years of age and a member of the Military Cycle Corps, has been wounded. Mr. M'Intyre has two other sons at the front.

Mrs. H. Whichelo, of Lithgow, has been advised that her son, Private Albert Whichelo, has been wounded.

Mr. Robert Hutchison, of Oakey Park, Lithgow, has been advised that his son, Private Leslie Victor Hutchison, has been accidentally wounded.

Private C. V. Willard, of Glennies Creek, Singleton, has been wounded in France. He had only just returned to duty after having been wounded.

Mr. John Anschau, postmaster at Parramatta, has received notification that his eldest son, Corporal Gilbert Anschau, has been wounded in France. Corporal Anschau took part in the landing at Gallipoli, being attached to the First Field Ambulance, and remained on the Peninsula till after the Lone Pine Battle, when he was invalided to England, and thence to Australia, subsequently proceeding to France with the infantry. His brother, Private Roy Anschau, is at present in England, recovering from a severe illness, after two years of active service on Gallipoli and in France.

Private E. E. Lane, son of Mrs. Lane, 25 Clebb-street, Rozelle, has been seriously wounded.

Private Argent Lucas, son of Senior-sergt. Lucas, of Nowra, is lying wounded in France. Private Lucas was serving in the Lewis Machine-gun Section.

Sergeant J. C. Thomson, youngest son of Mr. W. Thomson, of Yass, has been wounded. He is a member of the Imperial Camel Corps, and has a brother fighting in France.

Mr. E. T. Bradford, of Yarraman, has been notified that his son, Lieutenant Bert Bradford, M.C., of Meadowbank and Yarraman, has been wounded in France.

Mrs. J. Kable, of Dunedoo, has received a cablegram stating that her brother, Driver Robert Leeson, of the Australian Motor Transport Service, has been wounded.

Private P. C. Coberoft is reported to have been dangerously wounded. He is the eldest son of Mr. A. C. Coberoft, of Singleton, and left with the first 15 men from Singleton. He fought at Gallipoli for seven months.

Private T. A. Dalgliesh, of Berrigan, has been wounded in France.

Information has been received by Mr. Chas Hembrough, of Molong, stating that his brother, Private John Hembrough, has been wounded in France.

ILL.

Mrs. Weedon, Hunter's Hill, has received information that her son, Captain S. H. Weedon, A.M.C., is ill. His brother, Lieut. J. L. Weedon, was wounded.

Private J. Giddy, eldest son of Mr. E. Giddy, of Kempsey, formerly of Penrith, is ill in hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Massey, of French's Forest-road, Manly, have received word that their son, Lance-corporal R. W. Massey, has been admitted into the Fargo Military Hospital suffering from pleurisy.

Mrs. L. Rogerson, of Terry-street, Blakehurst, has received information that her son, Driver S. Rogerson, is ill in hospital at Portsmouth, England. He served in Egypt and France.

MISSING.

Lieutenant Vernon Watkinson, who is reported missing, is a brother to the Rev. J. Watkinson, of St. Michael's, Sydney. He was for five months on Gallipoli, when wounded at Lone Pine. He fought at Pozieres.

Mr. George Binnie, of 4D Station, Quirindi, has been advised that his son, Alan, a member of the Aviation Corps, is missing in France.

PRISONER OF WAR.

Mr. John O'Hare, of Camden, has received notification that his son, Private Phillip A. O'Hare, of the Australian Camel Corps, has been captured by the Turks, and is unwounded.

RETURNED TO DUTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Radnedge, of Copper Hill, Molong, have received a cablegram from their son, Private P. J. Radnedge, who was recently wounded in France, stating that he had recovered from his wounds and had returned to duty.

PROGRESS AT BODINGTON.

WENTWORTH FALLS, Saturday.

Extensive alterations are being made at the Red Cross Sanatorium at Bodington, King's Tableland. There are at present 28 soldier patients, and provision is being made for 100. Two additional wards are in course of erection, and the administration block will be proceeded with when these are complete. The patients under treatment appear to be making satisfactory progress, and one man was discharged last week, having considerably benefited while he was an inmate of the institution. Through the good offices of the Rev. E. C. Robison, entertainments are periodically arranged for the soldiers. The Red Cross executive is sending up a new piano for the sanatorium.

CHARGE AGAINST A CLERK.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

David Flynn O'Donoghue, formerly a clerk in the Navy Office, appeared at the City Court to-day to answer several charges of false pretences.

It was stated that defendant represented to a firm that money was payable by them as a deposit on their tender. No such deposit was payable under the departmental arrangement. It was a fictitious deposit, created by O'Donoghue to get hold of the money. The cash was paid, and O'Donoghue gave a receipt for it. None of the sums was ever paid into the Commonwealth account.

O'Donoghue, who reserved his defence, was committed for trial, bail being allowed in one surety of £1000, and accused's recognisances for £1000.

HOWELL-PRICE CASE.

SECOND CHARGE PREFERRED.

Before Mr. Justice Ferguson, in the Central Criminal Court yesterday, David Clayton Howell-Price, formerly a lieutenant in the A.I.F., was charged with having forged a certain camp pay list in respect of "A" Troop, Dunedoo D/Squadron, of the 9th Light Horse, covering from November 25, 1914, to December 9, 1914; there was a second count of having uttered the aforesaid document with intent to defraud. Mr. H. E. Manning appeared to conduct the prosecution on behalf of the Crown; and Mr. J. W. Abigail to defend.

Before the jury was empanelled, counsel for the accused applied for a postponement of the hearing. He claimed that the case was no ordinary one, and it required more than usual attention by counsel. The Crown, under a sequestration order, had obtained possession of practically the whole of the assets of the accused, amounting to £17,000. All he had remaining were some personal efforts and furniture. He had not sufficient money to pay his legal expenses. In addition, numerous witnesses had to be called, and, owing to the accused being confined at Long Bay, serving a sentence on a previous charge, it took almost a whole day to interview him on each occasion. The accused, in fact, was situated in a position which did not enable him to go on with his trial in all fairness to himself. Counsel suggested that the Crown should consent to the granting of a sufficient sum from the assets of the accused as would enable him to make reasonable payments towards the cost of his defence. He submitted that a postponement of three months was necessary. Some of the witnesses needed by the accused were at the front, and it would be necessary to ask permission that they should be recalled.

After argument,

His Honor intimated that he had no power to make an order regarding the paying over of portion of the assets of the accused by the sequestrator, but he would certify that it was desirable, in the interests of justice, that counsel should be appointed for the accused. His Honor adjourned the case over to June 5, with permission then to counsel to repeat the application for a further postponement, if such were deemed necessary.

CASUALTIES.

As a result of a runaway accident in Oxford-street, Paddington, yesterday, three persons were admitted to St. Vincent's Hospital, suffering from severe injuries. The horse, which was being driven by George Shale, of Paddington-street, Paddington, while standing near the Paddington Town Hall suddenly took fright, and galloped down Oxford-street. Shale was thrown from the lorry and rendered unconscious. The animal swerved into a Bronte-bound tram. One of the passengers sitting in the front of the tram, named Charles Ashley, living in Frenchman's-road, Randwick, had his knee dislocated through being struck by the shaft of the lorry. The horse continued to travel down Oxford-street, and when near Darlinghurst it again dashed into an outward-bound tram, smashing the glass and otherwise damaging the front of the tram. Thomas Walsh, the driver of the car, had his leg broken, and his face was cut by broken glass. The horse received severe injuries, and died a few minutes later.

GLEN INNES, Monday.

A daughter, 3½ years of age, of Mr. George fell into a waterhole in the park on Saturday, and was drowned.

GOONDIWINDI, Monday.

Peter McGregor, a well-known selector of Mungie Scrub, near Boggabilla, was found dead in the bush. Deceased was 53 years of age.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

While engaged working a pillar in the Dudley colliery to-day, a miner, named John P. Gibbs, was killed by a fall of the roof. He was extricated quickly, but only lived for a few minutes.

WAGGA, Monday.

Walter Warren, of Oura, near Wagga, was thrown out of a buggy while driving to Wagga. The wheel of the vehicle struck a root of a tree on the roadside, and Warren was thrown out, a wheel passing over his head. Warren was found in a semi-conscious condition, and was removed to the Wagga Hospital.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The suggestion made recently by Mr. Lloyd George that an Imperial conference should meet annually to discuss matters affecting all parts of the Empire is cordially supported by the Prime Minister.

Mr. Hughes said to-day that he considered it a very good idea. "I have no doubt whatever," he added, "that the future policy of the Empire will be moulded by the Imperial conference, which will meet after peace has been declared. The resolutions of the recent conference are merely suggestions; they do not mould future Imperial policy."

MITTAGONG COTTAGE HOMES.

The Public Service Board has issued its report regarding the inquiry into the conduct of the State Children Relief Department, particularly in connection with the boarding-out of children under alleged undesirable conditions. The inquiry arose out of complaints by the Political Labour League Conference to the Minister for Education in regard to the alleged ill-treatment of State children. The Inspector-General of Police was asked to obtain reports from trustworthy members of the police force.

The board is of opinion that, if there ever had been undue severity in the treatment of State children at the Mittagong homes, at the far-off times when the witnesses produced by Mr. J. P. Hackett were resident therein, such a condition of affairs had not existed during recent years, nor does it exist to-day. In all their visits during the last few years the board has been struck with—(1) the absolute cleanliness of the homes and the surroundings; (2) the healthy moral tone prevailing among the children; and (3) the apparent happiness of the inmates generally.

The children, the report states, housed, as they are, in comparatively small families, live, even in these homes, under conditions as nearly approaching those of the family in ordinary home-life as is consistent with State control. The board, as a result of their investigation, find that there is no evidence to support any contention that the Mittagong homes to-day are conducted in anything but a satisfactory manner, but are, on the other hand, a credit to the State.

UPPER HOUSE.

The new members of the Legislative Council will be sworn in at the meeting of the Executive Council which is to be held at 12.30 p.m. to-morrow.

CORAMBA'S MISHAP.

The North Coast Company's steamer Coramba yesterday collided with a number of yachts in Careening Cove, causing damage. The Coramba, which had finished unloading timber at Pike's wharf, was backing away from the wharf preparatory to leaving the Cove for the stream. A heavy wind carried the vessel amongst the numerous small craft at anchor. Three launches were damaged, but by careful manoeuvring the Coramba evaded the remainder, and proceeded on her journey.

STATE BRICKWORKS.

The Minister for Works stated yesterday that the State brickworks at Botany will be closed down when certain contracts have been completed.

Mr. Ball added that there had been a loss of 12s per 1000 on the bricks turned out at Botany. The kilns, he said, would be leased to private companies.

This decision does not apply to the brickworks conducted by the State Government at Homebush.

VENEREAL CLINIC.

A night clinic for the treatment of venereal disease has been opened at Sydney Hospital.

The Minister for Health (Mr. Fitzgerald) stated yesterday that the clinic is open on Tuesdays at 7 p.m. for females, and at the same hour on Wednesdays for males.

YOUNG WOMAN SENTENCED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A young woman named May Hall was brought before Judge Johnston, in the Court of General Sessions to-day, for sentence, on three charges of having stolen in a dwelling.

Judge Johnston said that at the age of 19 years the accused had been convicted in fourteen cases of theft in dwellings. Her method seemed to have been to enter domestic service in respectable houses, and make use of her opportunities to commit thefts, and in some cases burn what she did not want, probably out of revenge. He would make the sentence such that it would be one month's imprisonment in excess of a term she was now undergoing.

CASUALTY LIST.

In all, 979 names are mentioned in the 293 1 list of casualties sustained by Australian troops abroad, which was issued yesterday. Following are the details:—

SAFE ROBBERIES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The similarity of the methods employed in robberies of safes recently in Caulfield and Collingwood characterised a robbery which took place at Fairfield on Sunday night or Monday morning, and in some degree another at the Hawksburn Railway Station this morning. This and the evidences of skill in the execution of the "jobs" lead the detectives to believe that an expert gang is at work, and that there may be some connection between this supposed gang and the safebreakers who have been operating actively in Sydney of late.

A feature of the safe robberies in Melbourne is the evidence of precautions taken in each instance to prevent discovery at the time by deadening the sound of the explosions in an identical manner, and subsequent detection by the "covering up" of traces and potential clues.

LORD MAYOR AND THE SOLDIERS.

An officer, writing from "In the mud in France" to the Lord Mayor, congratulating him upon his election to premier civic position, says:—"Will you permit me, as a soldier, to offer you my sincere congratulations? My duty takes me in the front line and in many other portions of our front on reconnaissance work, and I can assure you that every man from Sydney is indeed proud that they have a Lord Mayor who so well expressed the true sentiment of Australia in connection with conscription. Many of the Town Hall fellows are over here, whilst others are at bases on the coast. We here will have the honour of being in the big and final push, which may start any day now. Is it not a great honour that our divisions are generally put in the serious jobs, and, believe me, the confidence is not misplaced."

DEATH OF MR. A. S. FREW.

Mr. A. S. Frew, a well-known railway engineer, of North Queensland, died at a private hospital in Sydney recently. He had returned to Australia after offering his services in England for the Empire. Mr. Frew's boyhood days were spent in Sydney.

FRANCE'S DAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In the "Herald" of to-day we are told that another brilliant blow has been struck by our gallant French allies on the Aisne, and that as a result of the operations upwards of 5000 prisoners have been captured. This is cheering news. It will serve to remind us of our prodigious indebtedness to the French army and nation. It will help, too, to recall the fact that the 14th July is not far distant. That is the date of the National Festival of the French Republic. In times of peace the holiday is celebrated with the greatest gaiety all through France. In this, the third, year of devastating war, no light-hearted celebration is possible. But the date will be observed with fervent pride in the heroism of the French troops by Frenchmen and women the wide world over; and it is fitting that we in Australia should seize the occasion to acknowledge our indebtedness to our great ally, and honour France by celebrating the 14th July as never day was celebrated before.

Every one of us owes a deep debt to France. Let the forthcoming 14th July be an outlet for the enthusiasm and admiration that we all feel. Let it be a day on which New South Wales from its abundant riches will pour out an offering to mitigate the awful suffering of the French victims of the war, now numbering upwards of 3,000,000 souls. The cry of over 200,000 war orphans of France comes to us across the seas. Can we refuse to give comfort and succour to these fatherless and suffering children of French soldiers? Can we refuse to extend a helping hand to France in a way that must touch the hearts of her people, who so bravely and self-sacrificingly face unparalleled calamities in a spirit that has thrilled the whole world? Shall we not assuage in some little measure the wounds of this worn and weary, but yet proud and invincibly heroic, people?

The Lord Mayor of Sydney has convened a meeting of citizens for Monday next, May 14, at 3.30 p.m., in order to decide what steps shall be taken worthily to celebrate France's Day, and to organise an appeal to the public for funds in aid of the French victims of the war. May I ask such of my fellow-citizens as have recognised the sacrifices of France in the cause of right, humanity, and civilisation to attend the meeting on Monday next, and so demonstrate their sympathy with our noble ally, and help to devise some means of expressing their admiration and gratitude for the French, on whose soil the destinies of the free nations are being determined?

I am, etc., NEVILLE MAYMAN, Chairman France's Day Provisional Committee.

CENTRAL METHODIST MISSION.

The Town Hall was well filled last night to mark the 33rd anniversary of the Central Methodist Mission. A large number of prominent churchmen occupied the platform, including the President of the Conference (Rev. P. J. Stephen), Rev. W. G. Taylor, and Rev. T. Walker. Rev. J. G. Waterhouse presided.

An interesting address, "My Visit to the Western Front," was given by Chaplain-General Rev. A. T. Holden. The speaker paid a generous tribute to the fine principles of General Birdwood, both as a soldier and a man. "If ever," he said, "there was a man who was temperamentally suited to command the Australian army it was surely General Birdwood. (Applause.) He knew the Australian, and realised his temperament in a manner that was truly remarkable. General Birdwood was a churchman as well as a great soldier, and often when he (the chaplain) had been conducting service the general would ask permission to chat with 'his boys.'" (Laughter and applause.)

But there was another side to the character of General Birdwood, and one that every mother in Australia would be proud of. He always insisted upon every man writing regularly to his people in Australia.

The Chaplain-General, in an easy descriptive method, took his audience over the various phases of a soldier's life at the front, laying particular emphasis upon the magnificent endurance of the boys in the trenches.

Miss Jessie Sheath, Miss Helena Collier, and the Methodist choir, accompanied on the organ by Mr. Livingston C. Mote, provided a fine programme of music and song.

The report, presented by Rev. S. J. Hoban (Superintendent C.M.M.), showed a year of creditable work.

TELEGRAMS DIVULGED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

It is likely that one of the first acts of the Ministry, as soon as the elections are finally disposed of, will be to appoint a Royal Commission to inquire into the working of the Telegraph Department, with a view to ascertaining how recent leakages of telegrams have occurred. Inquiries are being prosecuted with the object of discovering the person responsible for divulging a series of messages which recently passed through the department to and from the Prime Minister, and though it is possible that the culprit in this case may escape discovery it is intended that risk of any subsequent leakage should be minimised. The commission is designed to achieve this end.

RED TRIANGLE DAY.

The fund in connection with Red Triangle Day to be held on June 1, as a special effort toward maintaining the war work of the Y.M.C.A., was augmented yesterday by numerous donations, while the correspondence received by the citizens' committee of the Y.M.C.A. contained many offers of personal effort by leading citizens, and well known country residents. Mr. M. F. King wrote stating that he intended to offer for purchase in aid of the fund a copy of "Fifty Years among Young Men," a book by Sir George Williams (founder of the Y.M.C.A.), autographed by the author.

At the inauguration of the fund Mrs. C. J. Hart offered £10 if other women subscribers would contribute similar sums sufficient to raise £5000 for the erection of huts at the front to be known as "The Huts of the Women of New South Wales." This has produced four cheques of £10 each, from Miss Adelaide Walker, and Mesdames A. E. Phillips, J. Williamson, Senr., and J. E. Rogers.

Last evening the total amount received for the Red Triangle Day Fund was nearly £6000. Sums of £50 and over came to hand yesterday as follows:—

Previously acknowledged	5,714 11 1
Geo. H. Bosch (2nd donation)	100 0 0
N.S.W. Railways and Tramways Patriotic Fund	100 0 0
F. Russell Glasson	50 0 0
	£5,964 11 1

Contributions to this fund should be sent to the hon. treasurers, Red Triangle Day, c.o. Mr. C. H. Dew, organising secretary, citizens' committee, Y.M.C.A., Bull's-chambers, Moore-street.

DEFACING POSTERS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Commonwealth "Gazette," issued to-day, contained a war precautions regulation making it an offence to deface any recruiting poster or notice, or other document displayed by the Defence Department, Naval Department, or War Council, or the recruiting committees.

FINANCIAL.

THE MORATORIUM.

"Mortgagee": From due date of mortgage. "Belmore": (1) Yes. (2) He may enter into possession if the interest is more than one calendar month overdue.

RECORD PRICES FOR WOOL.

It is interesting to compare the highest prices obtained in Sydney for greasy wools during the past season by auction and appraisement with the records of the 1899-1900 season, which, prior to the war, presented the pinnacle of modern times, viz.:—

	1916-17. d.	1899-1900. d.	Excess. d.
Merino Fleece	24½	19¼	10
Merino Pieces	24	16¼	7¾
Merino Necks	28¼	15¼	12¾

Comeback Fleece	28	17¾	10¼

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

On the State Brickworks, the Botany section of which is to be closed, the loan expenditure has totalled £114,832.

When the war commenced the Prudential Assurance Company of England had under 2 per cent. of its total funds in British Government securities. Now over 25 per cent. of its total assets are in British Government securities.

The total number of controlled establishments in Great Britain under the Munitions of War Act, was, at the commencement of March, 4770.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The cabled information that business in linseed oil had been suspended caused a flutter in the local market. There were strong buying orders at Friday's closing rates, but the majority of merchants refused to sell in wholesale parcels, although they continued to fill distributing requirements of the best imported brand at 6/8 and 6/10 a gallon—prices fully 6d a gallon under the present landed cost. The local manufacturers were extremely busy. Indeed, Meggitts, Ltd., reported that it was unable to accept all the business offering. Parcels of the raw oil in cases were quoted at 5/7, and in drums at 5/1. Distributing lots commanded another 1d a gallon. If the export of linseed oil from Great Britain should be prohibited Australia will have to depend almost entirely upon the local manufacturers. Whitelead also attracted a lot of attention yesterday. There were strong inquiries from the best-known English makes, which sold in cwt. packages at up to £74 a ton. Second brands were offered at lower rates. Red-lead was in firm hands at £67 a ton. The export of lead from Great Britain is now prohibited except under license from the Ministry for Munitions, and merchants are experiencing the greatest difficulty in securing supplies even in cases where the goods are required for Government work. There was no movement in turpentine. The leading brand was to be had at 4/5, and second brands at 4/4 a gallon.

Stocks of all lines of hardware are rapidly diminishing, and merchants are daily becoming more cautious in making sales. At the moment it is difficult to secure a parcel of many of the leading lines. It is realised that it is impossible to replace certain lines, and that others can be replaced only at a very substantial advance on previous figures. Galvanised corrugated iron, for instance, is practically unobtainable, and for supplies of any brand holders were asking £50 a ton. Plain iron was worth the same money. The bases price of black sheets, 6 to 14 gauge, advanced at £40 a ton, while tinned stamped sheets were sold as high as £80. Galvanised piping was in strong hands at 25 per cent. off list, while T.U.S. sheep shears brought 62/6. I.X.L. rabbit traps were firm at 27/6. There were no "specials" on the market. Tin ingots were good property at 2/5, and for plaster up to 30/ a cask is wanted. The proclaimed price for tinplates, I.C. coke, 20 x 14, is 35/, but supplies were held for 42/. The method of regulating the tinplate trade is far from satisfactory. Any merchant whose cost is relatively high may, on application, receive permission to sell at a 10 per cent. advance on his purchase price, but the buyer whose judgment has enabled him to secure supplies under current rates is not allowed to sell at figures which consumers are willing to pay. Such a method of fixing prices is most objectionable.

The jute trade was at a standstill pending definite information as to what are the intentions of the Federal Government. Prices were nominally unchanged.

The samples of Ceylon tea which arrived by yesterday's mail showed the effect of the monsoonal season, and were on the whole much inferior to those recently received. All the same, the trade was in need of Ceylons, and a fair business was done at full rates. It is understood that heavy shipments of good quality Javas are on the water.

MELBOURNE FRUIT MARKETS.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The following are the prices ruling at the Western Market:—Apples, eating 4/ to 8/, cooking 4/ to 7/; Tasmanian 6/ to 8/; grapes, 8/ to 12/; lemons, N.S.W. 5/ to 6/, Victorian 6/ to 9/, imported 10/ to 12/; oranges, N.S.W. 6/ to 9/, Queensland 6/ to 10/; pears, 2/ to 4/; pineapples, Queens, 9/ to 12/.

PRODUCE.

DAIRY.

THE EGG MARKET.

The consumption of new-laid eggs is still decreasing, but as very few were available in Sussex-street yesterday, last week's firm prices were well maintained. Choice samples realised 2/5. Case eggs were also scarce; "Rivers" were worth 1/9, and South Coast and Railways 1/9 to 2/. New-laid duck commanded 2/4, and case 1/8 a dozen. Adelaide is still supplying the local market in small quantities, but only under contract. Holders of local cold storage eggs appear to be in difficulties. It is estimated that there are as many as 20,000 cases held in the ice chambers, and these may have to be unloaded before the end of July, as Brisbane generally commences to supply Sydney at about that time. Although cold storage holders have had, and are having a bad time, the position could have been worse. Had it not been for transport orders, probably larger supplies would have been left on their hands than is the case at present.

There was an exceptionally strong demand for cheese.

Choice Western honey sold well at 5½d in bulk, and 5¾d in single tins. Lard was unaltered—there was a fair inquiry.

The steamers Yugilbar, Pulganbar, and Wollongbar arrived from the North Coast with consignments totalling 5748 boxes of butter, and the Merimbula arrived from the South Coast with 708 boxes.

According to the "Argus," arrangements have been completed in regard to payment of butter reaching the required standard of the Federal pool. Cash may now be obtained from the Commonwealth Bank immediately on presentation of the documents stipulated in the pool regulations.

Quotations were:—

Eggs.—Hen, suburban, new-laid, 2/6; choice graded, 2/8; Northern Rivers, 1/9; South Coast and railways, 1/9 to 2/; duck eggs, new-laid, 2/2 to 2/4 per dozen.

Butter.—4/ per cwt. to be added for boxes and storage. Choicest, 149/4 per cwt; packed in prints, ½d per lb may be charged.

Bacon.—Sides /11¼, flitches /11¼, middles 1/1, shoulders /10 per lb.

Hams.—Single cloth, 1/3½; seeds, 1/4 per lb.

Cheese.—Local: Matured, /10 to /10¼; prime, 9¼; large, /9 per lb.

Honey.—60lb tins of choice western, /5¼; candied, /4 to /4¼; Northern River, /4 to /4¼; occasionally /5 per lb.

Lard.—Packets, /10¼ to 1/; bulk, /10 to /11¼ per lb. Beeswax.—1/6; dark from 1/3 lb (almost nominal).

POULTRY.

River and Railways.—Old hens, 2/9 to 3/3, choice 3/6; roosters, small 2/6 to 3/, choice 4/ to 4/6, muscovy ducks, 4/ to 5/, drakes 5/6 to 6/6; English ducks and drakes, 4/ to 4/6; guineafowls, 5/ to 5/6 (nominal); turkeys, hens 7/6 to 10/, gobblers, 10/ to 17/6; pigeons, 1/3 to 2/ a pair.

Suburban Consignments.—Fat hens, medium to good 3/3 to 4/, prime to 5/, choice to 6/ per pair; young roosters, small to medium 3/3 to 4/6, good to 5/, prime to 6/6, few choice to 7/; muscovy drakes, medium to 4/9, good to 5/6, few choice to 6/; English ducks, old and light to 2/6, good to 4/6, few choice to 5/; turkeys, gobblers, medium to 12/, good to 18/, prime to 25/, few choice to 27/; hens, medium to 9/, good to 11/, few choice to 12/6; guineafowls, to 5/6; geese, none to hand; pigeons, to 2/3 per pair.

FORAGE AND GRAIN.

HEAVY FALL IN POTATOES.

In the forage and grain section, the outstanding feature was a fall in potato prices. Two steamers arrived from Tasmania with 18,000 bags, and as there was a large "carry-over" from last week, prices eased £1 a ton all round. Redskins and Plunketts sold at £6, Brownells £5/10/, Bismarcks £5, and Pinkeyes £4/10/. Onions were unaltered.

There was no change in maize; 3/3 was realised for small parcels of yellow.

Oats and peas cleared at unaltered rates.

Quotations were:—

Chaff.—Wheaten, prime £4/15/ to £5, good £3/10/ to £4/10/, medium £3 to £3/7/6, oaten, prime, £4/10/, good £3/10/ to £3/15/ per ton; inferior chaff almost unsaleable. Victorian, £4/10/ a ton. Oaten Hay.—Victorian: £5/10/ to £5/15/; local, £5/10/ to £6 a ton.

Oats.—Tasmanian: A grade Giants, choice 3/ to 3/2; Algerian, Tasmanian, and Victorian, feed 2/5 to 2/7, milling 2/8 to 2/9 per bushel.

Lucerne.—Prime green, £4/10/; dry, £4 per ton. Derrick Straw.—Oaten, £3/10/; wheaten, £3/15/.

Potatoes.—Tasmanian: Redskins and Plunketts, £6; Brownells £5/10/, Bismarcks £5, Pinkeyes £4/10/ a ton.

Broom Millet.—Prime long hurl, £30 to £33; inferior from £20 a ton.

Peas.—Grey, 6/3 to 6/6; blue, 14/ to 14/6 a bushel. Maize.—Prime dry yellow, 3/2 to 3/3; white, 3/2 a bushel.

Onions.—Victorian: Brown Spanish, £4/15/ to £5 a ton.

Firewood.—Boxwood, choice 24/6, good 22/; stringybark 20/ to 21/; ironbark, 16/ to 18/6; mixed wood, 16/ to 17/6; bakers' wood, best 19/, good 17/, inferior 11/ to 12/ a ton.

RAILWAY MARKET.

Large supplies of fodder of medium qualities were forward at Alexandria yesterday. Buyers were in fair representation, and bidding throughout was steady. Grain chaff formed the bulk of the supply—chiefly consisting of wheaten chaff—while in the lucerne section, hay was plentiful, but no chaff was available. The market was not too firm, but stocks passed off at last week's prices.

In the vegetable section the market was dull, and values were easier. This was attributed to the fact that heavy arrivals of potatoes were forward from Tasmania, and buyers' attention was occupied in dealing with them.

The yarding comprised 153 trucks of forage, 7 of grain, and 22 of vegetables; while the manifest included 119 trucks of forage, 15 of grain, and 19 of vegetables.

The following sales were effected:—

Wheaten Chaff.—From Gray, Bilbilde (4675), 3/6; Short, Bathurst (4108), 3/9; Parker, Blayney (11257), 3/2, Jenner, Blayney (13911), 4/9; Burns, Carcoar (4529), 3/8, Yeldham, Orange (10196), 38 bags, 3/9, balance 150 bags oaten, 3/6; ex Maryvale (10819), 4/10; (11251), part, 5/1; Binnie, Webb's Siding (12155), 3/6, (15140), 3/7; Bullock, Noonbinna (18257), 5/4; Heywood, Forbes (129.5), 4/1; D'y Spence, Trundle (11970), 3/3, (13954), 161 bags, 3/3; balance 30 bags oaten, 3/3; Caughey, Mudgee (1308), 3/1; Grant, Bomen (18277), 3/3, (15498), 3/5, Poile, Bomen (13017), 3/7; ex Matong (13284), 2/8, (3078), 4/1; ex Coolamon (2801), and oaten, 3/; ex Coolamon (5881), 3/. Pumpkins.—Brown, Mudgee (18980), 2/3; Cox, Mount George (15081), part 2/; ex Mudgee (2317), 2/3 per cwt.

FRUIT MARKET.

The cooler weather had a steadying effect on the fruit trade. Local fruit was slow of sale at late prices. Persimmons were scarce and hardened slightly.

Quotations were:—

Lemons.—Choice 4/, medium 2/6 to 3/, small 1/6 a bushel-case.

Oranges.—Main crop, 2/6 to 5/; second crop, choice 6/ to 9/, medium 4/ to 5/, small 2/ to 2/6 per bushel-case.

Apples.—Local: Dessert, extra choice 9/, choice 7/ to 8/, medium 5/ to 6/6, small 2/6. Cooking: Choice 6/ to 7/, medium 4/ to 5/, small 2/6. Victorian: 7/ to 8/. Tasmanian: 7/ to 8/. Western Australia: Jonathan and Cleos, 7/ to 8/ per bushel-case.

Peaches.—Victorian: Choice 9/ to 11/, medium and small 5/ to 6/ per bushel-case.

Mandarins.—Choice 10/ to 12/, medium 6/ to 7/, small 3/ to 4/ a bushel-case.

Passionfruit.—Choice 10/, medium 5/ to 7/, small 2/ to 3/ a half-bushel case.

Pineapples.—Queens, 10/ to 12/; Ripleys, 8/ to 10/ a case.

STOCK TRUCKINGS.

The following trucks have been ordered for forthcoming stock sales:—

May 10: 251 sheep and 13 cattle waggons.
May 4: 187 sheep and 17 cattle waggons.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP.

A MARKET WHICH IMPROVED.

Although there were 15,802 sheep on the draw slip yesterday, the number penned totalled 13,895. They comprised a good round collection of merino and crossbreds of the useful trade sorts, with a fair sprinkling of heavyweight sheep. But the penning, as a whole, was hardly as good a representation as was witnessed last week. The sheep were mostly in lots of 100 to 500, but there were several consignments of 800 to 1000. They came from 63 owners, scattered throughout the State. The attendance of buyers at the opening sales was not quite up to the usual, and bidding was slow and the market inclined to drag. Quotations were in favour of buyers, but as the day advanced the position improved, and by lunch time the market had hardened considerably. In fact, it was firm on last day's rates. It continued so throughout the remainder of the day, and closing sales showed values quite on a par with Thursday's quotations. A draft of 300 cross wethers from the executors of J. H. Spiller, of Morundah, made to 41/, and averaged 38/9; cross wethers from H. M. Oliver, of Woodstock, sold to 41/11; cross wethers from W. Reynolds and Son, of Lake Bathurst, also made to 40/3, and those which came from W. May, of Cookamidgera, realised to 40/9. A line of 89 merino wethers, forwarded by W. Kirkby, of Moree, sold to 40/7.

Among the principal sales were the following:—J. J. Leahy, Negalana, w to 34/2; from E. A. A. Holcomb, Merah North, xbd w to 34/, xbd e to 37/6; from executors of J. H. Spiller, of Morundah, xbd w to 41/; from Mr. C. H. MacIntyre, of Scone, xbd to 33/9, w to 35/7; from F. W. Smith, Oaklands, xbd w to 38/4; from O. Kauffine, of Cooma, xbd w to 40/; from J. M. L. Macdonald, of Quirindi, xbd e to 38/4, from H. M. Oliver, Woodstock, xbd w to 41/11, xbd h to 35/1; from Boree Estate, of Moree, xbd w and e to 39/7; from C. Noonan, of Warren, xbd w to 39/3; from W. Kirkby, of Moree, w to 40/7; from J. R. Lomax, of Tenterfield ch w to 34/10; from Northern agents, xbd w to 42/; from P. O'Neill, Lyndhurst, xbd w to 39/10; from Edgerol Station, Edgerol, w to 39/2; from Pillaway Station, of Breeza, w to 36/1; from Edgerol station, Edgerol, w to 39/2; from W. Reynolds and Sons, of Lake Bathurst (Somerton), xbd w to 39/6 (Holmby) and xbd w to 40/3; from Prallaway station, Breeza, w to 38/1; from C. J. Curtis, Jerilderie, xbd h to 35/4; from Barton Bros., Wellington, xbd w to 38/2; from Thomas Ryan, Cowra, xbd w to 39/9; from W. May, Cookamidgera, xbd w to 40/9, and w to 36/1.

Quotations:—Prime merino w and h to 33/6, prime short-woolled merino w and h to 35/6, best to 40/7; prime merino ewes, not noted; prime crossbred w and h to 35/, prime short-wool crossbred w and h to 37/, extra to 40/, best to 41/11; prime crossbred e to 34/6, best to 38/4.

LAMBS.

There was a moderate supply of lambs, for which there was a good demand, and prices were quite equal to those of last sale day. One line of cross lambs from E. A. A. Holcombe, of Merah North, made to 30/3, and cross lambs from M. C. Whittaker sold to 33/2.

CATTLE.

MARKET DEARER.

There was a yarding of 928 cattle. They were a representative lot, embracing all classes from the small calf to the heavyweight bullock. They came from 45 owners, who represented many parts of New South Wales. There was a large attendance of buyers, and every branch of the trade was represented. Owing to the small supply, competition became keen, and prices were decidedly higher than last week. In fact, there was a general rise of from 20/ to 30/ per head, and in some places more. One line of 14 bullocks from — Male, of Cowra, made to £27/15/, and averaged £26/14/; 30 bullocks from A. Hooke, of Walcha Road, sold to £21/10/, and averaged £20/4/5; the Peel River L. and M. Company forwarded from West Tamworth 14 bullocks, which realised to £23/7/, and averaged £18/5/10; a draft of 10 bullocks from E. O. T. Bowman, of Upper Manilla, sold to £21/19/ and averaged £20/4/9. A dozen bullocks from J. H. and R. J. Fagan reached to £20/11/, and averaged £20/1/4; a consignment of 50 bullocks, a very fine lot, from the executors of the late H. B. Coward, of Bourke, made to £22/4/, and averaged £18/11/9; cows from G. W. Rowlands, of Carcoar sold to £18/19/, and averaged £15/19/9.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From G. Tillman, of Mungindi, 50 bullocks to £22/4/, average £18/11/9; from J. H. and R. J. Fagan, 12 bullocks to £20/11/, average £20/1/4, and 6 cows to £18/2/, average £17/4/; from W. B. Lawler, of Bugilbone, 11 bullocks to £23/12/6, average £21/11/7; from A. Rogers, of Attunga, 7 cows to £16/7/6, average £14/10/11; from Bakewell Bros., Scone, 29 bullocks to £18/2/6, average £17/17/3; from J. J. Leahy, of Tregalana 22 bullocks to £19/2/6, average £16/5/10; from T. G. Wilson, of Glen Innes, 51 bullocks to £20/10/, average £16/5/4; from — Male, of Cowra, 14 bullocks to £27/15/, average £26/14/; from A. A. Company Willow Tree, 30 bullocks to £18/5/, average £18/1/; from H. E. A. and V. White, of Scone, 63 steers to £18/6/, average £16/19/9; from Peel River L. and M. Company, of West Tamworth, 14 bullocks to £23/7/, average £18/5/10; from R. R. Dangar, of Quirindi, 34 cows to £14/10/; from A. Hooke, of Walcha Road, 30 bullocks to £21/10/ average; from G. W. Rowlands, of Carcoar, 9 bullocks to £19/12/, average £19/2/2; 4 cows to £18/19/, average £15/19/9; from E. O. T. Bowman, of Upper Manilla, 10 bullocks to £21/19/, average £20/4/9.

Quotations:—Yards of prime light bullocks and steers to £18, yards of prime medium weight bullocks and steers to £20/10/, yards of prime heavy weight bullocks to £23/10/, extra to £26, odd higher, good to about £16, medium and light to about £12; yards of prime cows and heifers to £16, odd higher, good to about £13, medium to £10/10/, light and inferior lower. Prime light beef to about 36/, prime medium-weight to about 50/, prime heavy to about 47/6, good light trade beef to about 45/ per 100lb.

MINING.

BARRIERS FIRMER.

Although opening operations in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday were of a rather promising character, business after the second call fell away below expectations. The closing of the Adelaide Exchange, due to the observance of Accession Day in South Australia, was probably the indirect cause, but the absence of the usual afternoon interstate activity was the effect on the local market. Brisk business was transacted, however, during the two morning meetings in the chief Westonian and Broken Hill propositions and Ratruts came in for frequent handling.

Among copper stocks, Hampdens, the only venture attracting active business, seemed weaker at 32/9. A healthier tone was displayed for Centrals in the Edna May group, with sellers asking 20/, and sales advancing to 19/4½. Deeps and Consols, con., were inclined to harden, while the parent stock provided exchange at about late prices.

Barriers were the subject of most dealing. British advanced early to 30/, and a rally in Junctions (con.) and Junction Norths occurred at the morning call, though the latter shares closed a few pence lower at 11/7. Norths put on /9, advancing to 51/9 in the course of the day, and at six weeks' despatch Hills moved up to 45/9.

The "bears" were disinclined to let Ratruts alone, and frequent fluctuations traced the course of business in the enterprise. The subject of the recent speculation turned out to be not so much the reduction of a half-ton in the yield, but the prospect of a water shortage and consequent cessation of dredging. Vegetable Creeks receded a little to 4/1, and a material weakness was revealed in Trongs at 10/9.

NOTES.

The Corella Copper Company, N.L., announces that the smelting works commenced operations on May 2. The directors draw attention, however, to the fact that according to reports the available smelting ore is limited and the duration of the smelting depends upon future developments.

The Mount Cuthbert Company's smelter furnace was stopped for three days at the beginning of April, and as the men declined to work on Good Friday or Easter Saturday smelting was not resumed until April 8. The general manager reported that up to the end of April 2079 tons of ore had been treated, and 159 tons of blister copper produced. The shortage of miners was hindering production, but the Director of Labour in Brisbane was sending men forward.

TIN YIELDS.

The following tin yields have been announced:—

Company.	Period.	Hrs.	Y'rd'gs.	Yield. Tons.	Prev's Yield.
Katoo Deebook	April	—	—	18.8	18.48
Ratrut	2 weeks	—	35,000	14¾	15
Tongkah Comp.	2 weeks	280	36,000	18¾	—
Tongkah Harb.	Week	—	—	*29	30
Veg. Creek	Week	—	—	4	4¼
Pioneer (Tas.)	4 weeks	—	—	27	—

The Tongkah Harbour No. 5 dredge was stopped for seven days, thus furnishing cause for the decreased output.

MINE MANAGERS' REPORTS.

The following weekly reports were made available yesterday:—

Edna May Deep Levels.—"Shaft sunk four feet, now cutting plat. In main drive stripping off hanging and footwalls, values about 5dwt."

Edna May Consolidated.—"Main shaft N.-W. drive advanced 10ft, showing value of 5dwt. in schist and quartz to a total length of 26ft. The N.-E. drive advanced on the footwall 10ft, in stone worth 12dwt. to a total of 26ft. On the middle reef am driving level from the main shaft to connect with the winze. On the 10th level advanced 17ft. Final assays of sands from the lower reef showed 10dwt. 5 gr. gold, and in the slimes 4dwt. 14 gr. gold. Am dismantling the plant at Kookynie."

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The extensive and energetic Antarctic disturbance, which was centred to the south of Adelaide on Saturday, and which extended as far north as the centre of Australia, yesterday covered the south-eastern corner of the continent, with its centre to the east of Tasmania.

This disturbance was rather disappointing, as it only resulted in light falls over the southern half of the State, with a few heavy falls on the south-western slopes.

The western high pressure has made rapid easting, and has taken the form of a true winter type. The centre is situated between the Western Australian goldfields and Alice Springs.

The cyclonic disturbance between Norfolk Island and the North Island of New Zealand has disappeared altogether.

With this distribution of pressure we may expect further showers on the central and southern slopes, and on the extreme south coast.

Snow also may be expected on the southern highlands, with cold weather generally, and squally west to south-west winds.

Ocean Forecast.—Squally and rough around Tasmania and over South Tasman Sea; elsewhere smooth to moderate.

HARBOUR LIGHTS.

In connection with the improved harbour lighting scheme of the Harbour Trust, it was announced yesterday that the red light at Bennelong Point has been completed, but that it will not work until the green light at Kirribilli is finished.

AURORA'S CONDITION.

The auxiliary schooner Aurora, was taken to the Jubilee Dock Works on Saturday morning for the purpose of having the iron casting on the bow removed. This will enable the surveyors to make a thorough examination of the leak, and decide as to whether it is necessary for the Aurora to be docked.

COASTAL VESSELS DELAYED.

Rough weather and heavy seas were reported along the coast yesterday, and as a result numerous steamers were delayed. The steamers Boambee, Gunbar, and Mokau were barbound at the Tweed River; and the steamer Ramornie, at 5 p.m., was waiting for the tide to enter Richmond River. At Barranjoey the ketches Florence Ruby, May, and Brothers were sheltering, and at Seal Rocks the schooner Shannon.

HOTEL, SUBURBAN.
At the very best suburban station in N.S.W., and where no greater prospects have ever been offered. THIS HOUSE HAS NO OPPOSITION, and is a new and beautiful brick structure, which is spoken of as a monument to the architect, and also the furnishings to the furnisher. Right at the entrance of the great, and to be greatest, station. Doing an entire bar trade, with the rooms and appurtenances to cope with residential business. The present licensee has been in possession for years, but through mishaps, which occur in nearly every life, HE MUST SELL, OR RATHER SACRIFICE, THIS BUSINESS. The price asked is not one-third of the profits of the lease, which is 16 YEARS. RENTAL ONLY £6. TAKINGS £130. FULL PRICE, £3500; or to an hotelkeeper with satisfactory records vendor will finance a big proposition. BUYERS OF GOOD THINGS SEEK THIS.

HOTEL, SHIPPING BUSINESS.
BUYERS, you all know how the shipping trade has been crippled for the past 12 months, and now that the end of this war is prophesied to be close WHAT BETTER CAN YOU BUY? This is an hotel that will show a GUARANTEED TRADE OF 9 x 36's OF BEER for the past 12 months. The lease and rent are right (long and light). TAKINGS OVER £85 WEEKLY. PRICE, IF SOLD THIS WEEK, ONLY £800.

HOTEL, COUNTRY, £1800.
NET PROFITS OVER £1400 FOR PAST YEAR, and the prospects from now till 2017 are bright, and must increase each year, because this town, which is only in its infancy, is like ARNOTT'S BABY—IT WILL GROW LARGE AND FAT; ALSO, LIKE JOHNNY WALKER, LAST OVER 100 YEARS, AND STILL GO STRONG. 'Tis a manufacturing town, surrounded by all the products in their raw state, which are turned out. The thing. POPULATION OF TOWN, OVER 4000. Practically no opposition. This hotel has made two licensees independent, and will surely make many more. 'Tis a lovely house, and elaborately furnished and equipped, all conveniences, gas, water, electric light, cordial dispenser, stables, gardens, and motor garage. LEASE 9 YEARS. RENT £8. TAKINGS £175. BEER, 12 x 36's. (We have all proof of this advert.) THE CASH PRICE IS ONLY £1500.

HOTEL COUNTRY, £450, FREE.
THE SMALL SPECULATOR'S INCUBATOR OF MONEY. This Hotel has been in the same hands FOR 18 YEARS, and now failing health compels a sale. 'Tis within 200 miles of city. LEASE 6 YEARS. Rent £3. Takes £54, all 6d drinks. Price £450. FREE. Can finance.
